KELS ASKS DELAY IN HEARING

Lodi Butcher In Daze As He Faces Former Friends In Court

JUDGE WILL PASS SENTENCE MONDAY

Prisoner Declares "Staring Eyes" Drove Him to California

(By United Press Leased Wire)
STOCKTON, Oct. 5.—Alex Kels today pleaded guilty in superior court here to a charge of having murdered an unidentified man at his ranch near Lodi three weeks ago. The case was then continued until Monday.

Kels appeared dazed as he was led into Superior Judge D. M. Young's court, between two officers. He looked around the room, which was filled with people, many of whom had been his acquaintances for years, but seemed to recognize few of them.

There was a conference of attorneys and then Kels explained he wished a delay while he arranged his affairs so that all his property would go to Mrs. Kels. The court decided that the arraignment should go on.

The clerk read the indictment to Kels who listened without any particular show of emotion.

"Do you plead guilty or not guilty to the charge contained in this indictment?" he was asked. "Guilty," came the prompt response.

It was then decided to continue the case until Monday at which time the district attorney said he would present certain evidence as to the nature and seriousness of the crime and give the court other information of value in determining sentence.

Staring eyes of hundreds of people everywhere he went, drove him back to California despite his fear of almost certain arrest for murder. Kels declared today as he waited for the hour when he would be called into court.

"After I fled from Lodi," said Kels, "everywhere I went it seemed like everyone was staring at me. I couldn't stand it. That's why instead of going to Mexico as I planned, I wandered from place to place through California, Arizona, Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, Nevada and finally back to California."

"I knew it was dangerous to come back to this state but I couldn't help it. My friends were here and I had to come."

Kels told his story to jail attorneys. He has firmly refused to see newspapermen or even an attorney.

"If an attorney would defend me before a jury for $25, I wouldn't spend the money," he told the head jailer when George F. McNoble, his lawyer, attempted to see him.

McNoble, co-incidentally, at the time of Kels' arrest, was conducting probate proceedings to distribute the estates of the supposedly dead Kels.

Mrs. Kels, awaiting a visit from the state, and two days ago believed dying, was reported improved today. She still knows nothing of her husband's arrest and confession and continues to believe that she buried Kels nearly a month ago.

"Some day she certainly will have to know," an officer told Kels.

"My God," was his comment. "It will kill her."

Expect Life Sentence

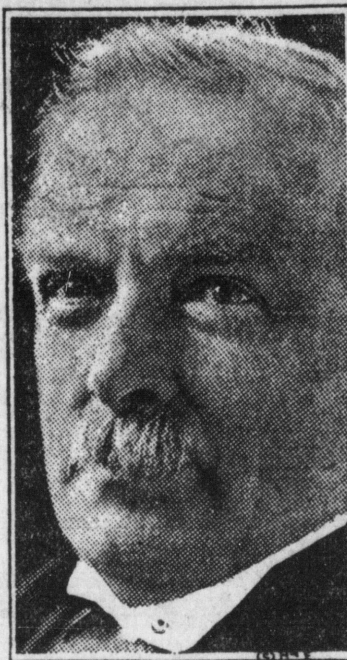

It was generally believed Kels would be sentenced to life imprisonment and will not hang—because he confessed and did not force a jury trial.

McNoble shed interesting light on the case when he revealed that although Kels claimed he desired his wife to believe him dead so she could collect his $105,000 life insurance, Mrs. Kels is not pressed for money. She has property worth $30,000 in her own right and is to inherit $75,000 additional from relatives.

PORTLAND, Oct. 5.—Endorsement of the development and control of water and power resources by state ownership, under acts similar to that defeated in California in 1922, was voted by the American Federation of Labor convention here today.

Additional consideration of resolutions was expected to come before the convention today. Just when the propositions likely to cause debate will be brought up is a matter of conjecture, although it is believed the third party idea, recognition of Russia and other topics upon which the delegates are divided will be left until next week's deliberations.

SURVIVORS OF BOLD BANDIT GANG TAKEN

(By United Press Leased Wire)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 5.—Ed Lockhart and Frank Nash, remnants of the notorious Al Spencer gang, were in jail today at Vinita, Oklahoma, under heavy guard. They were captured last night near Leach, Oklahoma.

According to United States Marshal Alva McDonald, who, with a posse of officers, shot and killed Al Spencer near Bartlesville recently and rounded up a dozen of the outlaw's pals, the capture of Lockhart and Nash marks the end of the outlaw reign in the southwest.

"These men have spread terror for years in western Oklahoma," McDonald said. "Spencer and his gang robbed more banks than Jesse James."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The meeting this week of the governing board of the Pan-American union of which Secretary Hughes is chairman, developed a bitter attack by Venezuela upon Mexico, it developed. In a vigorous tirade the Venezuelan minister is said to have made a statement to the effect that Mexico is not a civilized country, that Mexico is filled with bandits, that the Oregon government of Mexico is fomenting rebellion in his country.

WAR PREMIER OF BRITAIN IN GOTHAM

Lloyd George, Wife and Daughter, Given Rousing Welcome by Throngs

(By United Press Leased Wire)
NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Lloyd George, Britain's former premier, landed at the Battery at 11:50 a. m. today.

A large crowd which jammed the square and filled the streets leading into it, greeted the statesman with a roar of cheers as he left the police boat Macon, on which he came up the bay and entered an automobile for the ride to the city hall.

Hundreds of American and British flags waved. From the skyscrapers, long streamers of ticker tape were thrown, giving a carnival aspect to the scene.

Ranks of policemen stood stiffly at attention as Lloyd George landed. Mounted officers formed an escort for the distinguished visitor.

Lloyd George grinned broadly and his eyes twinkled as he stepped across the gang plank.

Greets Veterans
He wore a silk hat and conventional morning dress. His first action after stepping ashore was to shake hands with his honor guard, composed of sixteen British World War veterans.

Then he stepped into the view of the crowd and a tremendous cheer went up.

With him were his wife and his daughter Megan.

As the official parade started up the canyon of Lower Broadway, between skyscrapers, the air was filled with confetti made of torn paper and with long streamers of ticker tape.

Scenes reminiscent of the celebrations that followed arrival of American troops from France after the World War, were enacted in the canyon of Broadway as the Lloyd George entourage rolled slowly up to city hall park.

The automobile containing Lloyd George reached the city hall at 12:25.

Acting Mayor Murray Murlbut was there to greet the distinguished visitor in the name of the city.

Several women carrying the tricolor of the Irish republic tried to make their way to Lloyd George's automobile. They made their attempt quietly but when interrupted, by the police guard began to shout "Down with Lloyd George!" "We'll skin him alive!" "He's nothing but a black and tan."

They were driven to the outskirts of the crowd by police and marched out of hearing distance by a squad of mounted police. No arrests were made.

Lloyd George, smiling broadly, came out of City Hall at one o'clock and stopped for the photographers.

The next leg of the British statesman's journey, which, by this time had become almost a triumphal procession, was up town to the Waldorf hotel.

The start from City Hall was made the occasion for another tremendous demonstration. The Irish had by this time been thoroughly subdued by stalwart police and the cheers and shouts were all friendly to Lloyd George as his car made its way slowly between the packed crowds that lined the route on each side.

By the time Lloyd George arrived at the Waldorf Astoria hotel he had been cheered by more than 100,000 persons. Smiling, waving his hat in response to cheers, he entered the hotel.

Harbor Jetty Threatened By Wash

The ocean channel has begun to wash the shore end of the jetty at Orange County Harbor, with a threat of severing the jetty from the land, and immediate action is necessary to prevent serious damage.

This report, from Harbor Master Joseph Beek, which came as a surprise to the directors of the Orange County Harbor Chamber of Commerce at Newport Beach last night, resulted in a request being made by the officers of the organization today to the Orange county supervisors to take steps at once to deposit large numbers of sacks filled with sand to prevent the threatened action.

In the case the supervisors or the city trustees of Newport Beach do not act this week on the matter, volunteers will be asked to assist in preventing the damage threatened by the officers of the harbor chamber said.

The chamber decided to co-operate with the Balboa Chamber of Commerce in an advertising campaign to extol the year-around advantages of the harbor as a pleasure resort and a place for homes. It was said that a meeting probably would be held in Balboa about October 29 to discuss plans for the publicity campaign.

INDICT STOKES FOR PART IN CONSPIRACY

(By United Press Leased Wire)
CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—W. E. D. Stokes, New York millionaire, and his attorney, Daniel Nugent and several others, were charged with conspiracy to defame the character of Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, in true bills voted here today.

Others named in the true bills are Joe Brunner, charged with being Chicago "pay-off" man for Nugent; Robert Lee, Ray Hubert, Mrs. Hattie Johnson and Harry Capsley.

The true bills named nine counts of conspiracy to show that Mrs. Stokes had visited certain resorts in Chicago.

Capsley, a New York negro is charged with gathering false witnesses for Stokes.

Hubert was head waiter of a Chicago cafe and he is accused of swearing falsely that Mrs. Stokes had visited the place with a notorious character.

Hattie Johnson was employed by Stokes in New York and was active in the conspiracy, the grand jury charged.

Commander Declares Common Sense Kept Destroyer Off Rocks

(By United Press Leased Wire)
SAN DIEGO, Calif., Oct. 5.—No destroyer doctrine, particularly that of "follow the leader," should be substituted for common sense, in the opinion of Lieutenant Commander D. L. McCauley, commander of the destroyer Paul Hamilton, who testified today before the naval board of inquiry, probing the Point Honda disaster, that he knew danger was ahead when the Delphy changed her course at 9 o'clock on September 8.

Instead of having his ship "follow the leader" Lieutenant Commander McCauley swung it to the right, out of formation after the Delphy had made its fateful turn to the left. The Paul Hamilton did not go aground.

Whether there was a mysterious current off Point Arguello reacting from the Japanese earthquake on the night the seven destroyers went aground was one of the questions still unsettled as the naval court opened today's session.

Originally this current, which some naval observers called a myth and others a grim reality, took a leading part in speculations as to the cause of the wreck. However, as the hearing continued its slow course, it was lost sight of amidst a mass of testimony concerning radio bearings, soundings and fog conditions.

According to the latest expert testimony given the court on the current, it is blamed for an eight mile difference between the dead reckoning position, on which the destroyer navigators were calculating, and the actual position of the ship. Because the ships were eight miles further north than they thought they were, the fatal order for a shorewards turn which sent the boats on the rocks was given, it is said.

Notorious Train Bandit Battles Fire In Prison

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Oct. 1.—Bill Carlisle has appeared in a new role. At the state penitentiary, he, the once notorious train bandit, who attracted national notoriety a few years ago by his daring exploits in holding up Union Pacific trains and then making his escape, battled for five hours against a fire that razed the prison shirt factory and threatened the remainder of the plant. Sticking to the front line of fire fighters and taking all manner of risk, Carlisle finally was overcome by smoke and forced to retire. He was taken to the prison hospital, where he recovered several hours later.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Plans for proposed impeachment proceedings against Governor Walton were delayed today by court action.

This, combined with the temporary restraining order secured by the Governor prohibiting the state election commissioners from certifying the returns of Tuesday's voting, temporarily halted the preparations of legislators for an extraordinary session.

NEW JURIST TO HEAR 'BUBBLE' CASE FIRST

Edward J. Koerner, accused erstwhile promoter of the so-called local "skyscraper bubble", who is charged with obtaining money under false pretense, will provide the first criminal case to be tried before Superior Judge F. C. Drumm in the new department 3 of the superior court here, it was decided today when Koerner's trial was set for October 18 and 19.

Koerner, who was in court today, again without his attorney, J. Morgan Marmaduke, entered a plea of not guilty to the charge and asked the earliest possible date for trial. Judge R. Y. Williams set the case down for the first open date in Judge Drumm's court.

The new department of the court was deluged today with the overflow cases from Departments 1 and 2. At a conference between Judges Williams and West, which Judge Drumm was unable to attend, the calendar for Department 3 was filled for weeks ahead with cases that had been waiting for an open date in the two older courts.

The first step toward relieving the congestion of cases was thus taken. Judge Drumm will start sessions in his department October 16, it was announced. Clerk Melvin Head represented his department at the conference for setting cases.

Skull of Alleged Desert 'Vamp' Victim Shown in Court Hearing

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 5.—skull of John J. Knight, wealthy Dallas, Texas, oil operator who was slain in the desert after he is alleged to have been lured there by a woman, was the principal exhibit today in the preliminary hearing of Tom Turnstall and Tudie McBiles, charged with the murder.

The hearing was continued today, when the state produced evidence of the death and the that of Knight, in order to establish the corpus delicti.

The state charges that Knight was "vamped" by Esther Lee Turnstall, who later decoyed him to a lonely spot on the desert, where it is charged Turnstall, her brother, and McBiles murdered and robbed him of $3500.

Later, it is charged, Knight's body, which had been stripped of its clothing and buried in an unmarked grave, was exhumed by the alleged murderers and taken to Phoenix, where several attempts at desecration by acid were made. The skeleton was found in a closet.

The girl in the case was recently arrested near Los Angeles, where she had recently married an oil worker named Fullerton. She is jointly charged with the crime. Her hearing will be held later.

Efforts to Dislodge Trio With Tear Gas Bombs Is Failure

THREE GUARDS DIE FROM GUN WOUNDS

Warden Issues Order to Wreck Building to Halt Prison Warfare

EDDYVILLE, Ky., Oct. 5.—Hope of dislodging the three Kentucky convicts from their mess-hall fortress at the state prison by gun fire, hand grenades and tear bombs has been abandoned, according to an announcement from the warden's offices, shortly before 10 a.m. today.

An attempt will be made to wreck the building by a blast of dynamite, it was said.

No signs of life had come from the convict trio since before dawn. Prison guards and militiamen rounding the building were ordered to cease bombardment of the brick walls.

Work of laying the dynamite was started at once.

At least one of the three prisoners who killed three guards and wounded another in an attempt to shoot their way to liberty Wednesday is still alive.

The last move by the defenders of the mess-hall came shortly after dark last night. A bullet was fired from a second story window as a prison employee walked into the prison yard to light an acetylene lamp.

An hour earlier one of the convicts is believed to have attempted to escape. A fusillade of machine gun fire drove him back, however, when he started down the stairs inside the building. Guards discerned his shadow through a stairway window.

The two-story mess-hall into which the three convicts fled after their battle Wednesday with prison guards, is crumbling. Machine gun and rifle fire has made three large breaches in the brick walls.

The convicts are barricaded in the upper floor. Members of the attacking forces during the night entered the ground floor of the building. Several tear bombs were hurled up the stairway, but a strong wind blew the fumes back and they were ineffectual.

The beleaguered convicts are Monte Walters, Lawrence Griffith and Harry Forland.

If the men have in plenty of ammunition they are in a position to hold out a long time, as their stronghold, kitchen and dining room of the prison, is well stocked with provisions.

Red Seal Concert and Operatic

Record	Artist	Double-Faced
Gioconda—Suicidio (Suicide Remains)	Maria Jeritza	6375 $2.00
Alceste—Divinites du Styx (Divinites of the Nether World)	Maria Jeritza
Modern and classical opera. The "despair" scene from "La Gioconda," and the great air from "Alceste," pure, noble and symmetrical as a Greek temple.

Slavonic Dance No. 2 (Dvorak-Kreisel)	Viola Sels Jascha Heifetz	6376 2.00
Slavonic Dance No. 3 (Dvorak-Kreisel)	Viola Sels Jascha Heifetz
Two more of those weird compositions in Kreisler's violin arrangement with piano. They have strange, wailing, double-stop melodies, breaking into dizzy and fantastic dances.

Light Vocal Selections

Silver Threads Among the Gold	Henry Burr-Peerless Quartet	19112 .75
When You and I Were Young, Maggie	Henry Burr-Peerless Quartet
Two old songs beloved of "Us, the common people," in the smooth rolling harmony of men's voices, with subtle undercurrents of orchestral music.

Three Thousand Years Ago	Billy Murray	19132 .75
It's a Lotta Bologny	Billy Murray
"Three Thousand Years Ago" purports to be sung in Egyptian, though you will understand it without trouble. "Bologny" is a study from "tough life," and a true one.

My Pal	John Steel	19131 .75
Just a Girl that Men Forget	Henry Burr
A typical "pal" song and a heart-song in the most popular of popular styles by two of the most popular of popular tenors. Both songs in waltz time.

Humorous Monologue

Will Rogers Nominates Henry Ford for President	Will Rogers	45369 1.00
Will Rogers Tells Traffic Chiefs How to Direct Traffic	Will Rogers
Two more of Will Rogers' brilliantly humorous monologues. His nomination speech, we predict, will be an American popular classic. His humor, if shrewd, never is bitter. His recommendations to traffic chiefs are also worth hearing.

Dance Records

Oh Susanna—Medley Fox Trot	The Great White Way Orchestra	19125 -.75
Southern Melodies—Waltz	The Troubadours
Stephen Foster's "Oh Susanna" combined into a pleasant, wholesome fox trot. The Waltz is made of Foster melodies that every one knows.

That Big Blond Mammy—Fox Trot	Tennessee Ten	19130 .75
Sobbin' Blues—Fox Trot	The Benson Orchestra of Chicago
The "Mammy" seems replacing the "Mammy" in American popular music. "That Big Blond Mammy" is a joyful-stupe sort of number with a fine dancing-rhythm. "Sobbin' Blues" is one of the strangest dances since the "Wang-Wang Blues."

cluded in the reports now on file this year is expected to exceed last eral readings. P. S. Lucas, secretary of the M. & M., told of an essay contest open to students, in and constructive thought to many matters which, under ordinary procedure, would receive scant attention.

"Much the same policy should be followed in outlining for your representatives at Sacramento, the legislative matters you, as county assessors, would like to see enacted into helpful laws."

"Many of your senators and as-semblymen would like to help you, but, in some instances, they are not sufficiently posted and are not prepared to answer questions hurled at them by the opposition.
There should be the closest possible co-operation between the boards of supervisors and the county assessors."

UNIFORMITY IN ASSESSMENTS
TOLD VISITORS

Brief addresses by John S.
Chambers, former state controller;
Edward W. Hopkins, Los Angeles county assessor, and B. F. Hillhouse, assessor of Yolo county; and an exhaustive resume by Charles B. Anderson of Los Angeles county, touching upon the uniformity of assessments, were among the outstanding features of the second day's sessions of the State Association of County Assessors held here today.

Anderson, who is chief improvement valuation deputy in the office of Edward W. Hopkins, Los Angeles county assessor, gave the assembled assessors and their deputies some highly interesting and helpful suggestions concerning the manner in which Los Angeles county brought about uniformity in the assessment of buildings.

"In order to perfect our own system," Anderson said, "it was necessary to do a great deal of preliminary work, including much research, but we feel, after thorough consideration, that it has been one of the best moves we have ever made. You will be interested to learn that the hardwood floor, in the average bungalow, was one of the things that aided us most materially in arriving at the determining costs in this type of construction. We computed figures on the average life of the usual type of building."

"It was found, for example, that the life of factory and store buildings, as determined by insurance companies, is twenty-five years, with a loss in value of 75 per cent.
Bungalows and cottages, receiving better care, will last about thirty years, while the better type of residences will stand up, under ordinary conditions, for thirty-five years."

Defends Public Salaries

Chambers, at present manager of the Sacramento branch of the Bank of Italy, asked the assessors to excuse his inability to deliver a lengthy speech. He explained that a long and severe illness made it necessary to conserve his strength, but consented to speak briefly in connection with what he termed
"the mischievousness of misrepresentation concerning salaries paid state and county officers."

"I think it is a mistake," Chambers said, "for some newspapers to create the false impression in the minds of the people that the taxpayers must carry the burden of the $4,000,000,000 paid to state, county and federal officers for the discharge of their duties."

"Doubtless there are some high salaried officials who are of little use to the taxpayers, but it is wrong to create the impression that men entrusted with such great responsibilities should not be well paid."

Declaring themselves heartily in favor of any movement designed to assist their respective offices in keeping a closer check on motorists who seek to evade payment of the necessary automotive fees, the assessors named a committee of five to work with the state motor vehicle department.

Want Registry Copies

This committee, headed by R.
F. Hildner of Yolo county, will seek to secure a copy of all registrations made at Sacramento. In order that the county assessors may lose no time in making their own collections from motorists residing in the various counties, where they are subject to tax.

Other members of this committee are E. E. Long, Solano; B. D.
Erwin, Sacramento; G. O. Meese,
Contra Costa, and L. J. Kennedy,
Alameda county.

Others scheduled to deliver addresses included G. F. Cummins of Fresno and John Ginty of San Francisco. Round table discussion, election of officers, selection of the 1924 meeting place, appointment of committees, and a scenic trip to Lemon Heights and Orange county park were scheduled for this afternoon. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m.

Need of Revenue Cited

Pointing out that California, one of the most promising states in the Union, must find ways and means to provide sufficient revenue to operate its state institutions, and take care of additional thousands in population, Controller Riley, late yesterday, delivered a stirring address before the convention and called attention to a number of matters designed to assist the assessors and their assistants in their work.

Following Riley, Dempsey Lack, secretary of the state board of equalization, urged the assessors to appoint committees at this time and empower them to take up subjects of vital importance to the assessors, investigate these thoroughly, and make their respective reports at the annual convention next year.

Urges Legislative Interest

"In this way," said Lack, "you will be in a position to give prompt the interest of the Salvation Army drive here."

R. D. Flaherty, former manager of the Orange county farm bureau and general manager of the 1923
Orange county fair, today has assumed his duties as manager of the Raitt Sanitary Dairy, which recently absorbed the Sanitary Dairy company. The company has six

DELAY HARBOR ISSUE BEFORE FARM BUREAU

Twenty-two directors, almost 100 per cent, according to A. M. Stanley, secretary-manager of the Orange county farm bureau, were in attendance at a farm bureau board meeting held here late yesterday.

T. E. Stephenson presented a report to the board in favor of an agricultural college in Southern California. J. A. Smiley presented the 1923 Orange county fair report. A vote of appreciation was extended to R. D. Flaherty, manager of the fair. Decision was reserved on the Newport Harbor $1,000,000 bond issue proposal.

Questionnaires will be sent through the county to ascertain sentiment toward a Southern California agricultural college, it was voted.

Dr. J. A. Schofield presented the harbor committee report. It showed many features in favor of the harbor bond issue proposal and gave only one factor as unfavorable, it was said. The unfavorable comment was to the effect that money spent on the harbor would be too much in comparison with the possible dockage.

Decision in the matter was reserved until a later meeting, when further comment was urged of the committee.

Revival of the public utility department of the California Federation of Farm Bureaus, was the substance of a committee report on reorganization of the state departments.

A word of condolence and a box of flowers was despatched to John Osterman, treasurer of the state federation. Osterman has been seriously ill, it was reported.

Deak and Doc, the two Stanleys, S. W. of Tustin, and A. M., secretary-manager of the Orange county farm bureau, with H. E. Wahlberg, Orange county farm advisor, were assigned the job of creating an historical float for entrance in the Armistice Day parade at Orange.

Every Girl's Club

Many interesting events marked the latest Julia C. Lathrop Junior High school assembly presided over by Miss Evelyn Yount, president of Every Girl's club and with Miss Clara May, secretary, reading the minutes of the previous meeting.

A brief outline of the pleasant things promised on the year's entertainment course sponsored by the junior high schools, was followed by a program directed by Miss Mary Henderson.

A charming translation of a little Italian song, "Musical Brook," was sung by the glee club directed by Miss Abby Chapman after which Eleanor Young Elliott gave a group of monologue numbers. A graceful and intricate wand drill by a group of girls drilled by Miss Henderson, closed the program.

The scores of young girls present were enthusiastic in their reminiscences of another happy event held recently by the school when new girl students of each of the

Calumpit Auxiliary

So pleasant a social time was experienced yesterday by members of the Calumpit Tea group, meeting with Mrs. Howard Wassum and Mrs. Jean Tantlinger at the Fruit street home of the former, that work was allowed to drop and the entire day spent, as one member phrased it, "in eating and talking."

Mrs. Wassum and Mrs. Tantlinger presided at a charmingly appointed luncheon table adorned with yellow blossoms, dainty place cards bearing yellow roses and gay little nut cups to correspond. The luncheon was delicious and the sixteen members and three visitors enjoyed it, they chatted of their success at the county fair where their ice cream booth netted over forty-two dollars.

November 7, was definitely chosen as the bazaar date. The affair will be held at the G. A. R. hall where cards and refreshments will also offer inducement in the afternoon hours. At night a cafeteria dinner and an amusing program will be presented and the public is cordially invited to patronize the affair, and select articles from the large number of booths.

Mrs. A. L. Gassaway of Norwalk gave an interesting talk and Mrs. Matti Weisse was welcomed to membership. The visitors present were Mrs. Gassaway, Mrs. Mamie McDonnell and Mrs. J. W. Biggs.

Mrs. Annie Jones will entertain at the next tea, Tuesday, October 9 at 1 p. m. at her home, 1702 West Fourth street. All members are urged to be present to finish work for the bazaar.

60 LEGION MEN OF COUNTY TO ATTEND MEET

Approximately sixty Orange county legionnaires have made reservations for the reunion of the 91st division in San Francisco, Saturday and Sunday, October 13 and 14, and the national convention of the American Legion, October 15-19, Clyde Whitney, adjutant of Santa Ana Post No. 131, American Legion, announced today.

Including the wives of some of the Santa Ana men, twenty-one will go from here, ten each from Fullerton, Anaheim and Orange, eight from Huntington Beach and one from Brea.

According to information received here, 6000 veterans of the 91st are expected to be present at the reunion. Estimates place the number expected at the national convention at 150,000.

The main feature of the reunion will be the divisional dinner in the civic auditorium Saturday evening, it was stated. Preparations are being made for serving 4000 veterans at one sitting. This will be the largest indoor banquet ever held on the Pacific coast, according to reports from San Francisco.

It is expected most of the men from Orange county will depart from here by train Friday night of next week.

Those making reservations from Santa Ana include the following: Elmer Schaniel, H. W. Smith, George Fellows, Franklin Grouard, Wilber Getty, Charles Nussbaumer, Charles Belvin, Harry Osborn, Jules Markel, Eugene Douglass, G. K. Scovel, Robert Collins, Walter Gerken, Thomas Scudder, Clyde Whitney, Laurence Eaton, Royce Lantz, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Parker and Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Rose.

Two junior high schools, were greeted by the members of the two Every Girl's clubs.

A program presented in the assembly room at 5 o'clock offered a piano solo by Miss Ruth Violet, violin solo by George Bell Walton, and a reading by Alpha Watts. Each girl wore a card of the same color as a balloon carried by her section leader, and assembling in color groups, the young people enjoyed a progressive game going from room to room at the ringing of a bell, and greeting each other in friendly fashion. The last room of the eight visited, offered refreshments in the form of fruit punch and cookies.

Prussian blue was originally made from the hoof of the horse, but now it consists principally of iron, potassium and sulphur. It was first made in Prussia.

Weddings
ReceptionsQuiet Home Wedding Is Enjoyed By Group of Close Friends

Motoring northward to San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peters were today being followed by the loving wishes of their relatives and close friends who yesterday witnessed the pretty ceremony uniting Miss Rachel Irwin and Mr. Peters.

The home of Miss Irwin's brother, C. C. Irwin, 2333 North Main street, was chosen as the setting for the wedding, a mid-afternoon event. Mrs. Irwin and Miss Esther Irwin, youngest sister of the bride, had arranged the decorations with loving care, using dahlias and asters in orchid tints of pink and lavender, in countless decorative baskets.

The mantel, banked with asparagus plumosus fern and the delicate tints of the chosen flowers, offered a background for the nuptial service, read by the Rev. Mr. Hearst, pastor of the Huntington Beach Christian church.

Miss Irwin, gowned in georgette crepe in one of the new blue shades, beaded in self-toned beads, was a charming bride. Her flowers were long sprays of lilies of the valley with maidenhair fern, tied with silken tissue, fagoted with narrow satin ribbon.

Immediately after the congratulations which followed the ceremony, guests were asked to the dining room where a two-course supper was served. Surrounding the one long table were smaller ones, each decked with pink and lavender flowers and crystal candlesticks bearing pink candles which cast a rosy glow on the scene. Place cards were tiny slippers, decked with roses and orange blossoms. The bride made a pretty ceremony of cutting the wedding cake which was served with clever ices in individual molds.

Successfully eluding their friends, who lost the trail somewhere near Olive, Mr. and Mrs. Peters departed late in the afternoon for the little flock of blue Poiré will triumph in brown, a color note repeated in hat, shoes and other accessories. Upon their return in two weeks, they will establish a home in Huntington Beach where Mr. Peters is associated with his uncle, members of the contracting firm of Ridenour Brothers of Huntington Beach and Fullerton, who at present are erecting the new high school at the former city.

The bride graduated from Orange high school, while Mr. Peters is a graduate of Huntington Beach high school. They are both extremely popular among their friends. Mrs. Peters is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Irwin of Orange county park, who were among the guests at the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Oken Peters of Huntington Beach, parents of the bride.

Others gathered for the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Irwin, hosts, Miss Esther Irwin, Jo and Fay Irwin, Orange county park; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Carter, Brea; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ridenour, daughter Harriet and son Lawrence Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Tarbox and small daughter, Lorraine, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Miller and Owen Peters Jr. of Huntington Beach.

Lure of Bridge Draws Social Set to the Crown City

A smartly appointed bridge luncheon coupled with the gracious hospitality of Mrs. M. Russell Scott of Pasadena yesterday offered attraction to a group of the city's social set motoring to the Crown City to accept Mrs. Scott's invitation.

Arriving at the beautiful home on Orange Grove avenue, Pasadena's famous thoroughfare, the Santa Ana guests were greeted by Mrs. Scott and a small group of her home city friends and at once ushered to the dining-room and living rooms, en suite, where tables attractively centered with French bouquets, were all in readiness for the serving of a delectable course luncheon.

Following the luncheon, bridge was introduced and occupied the attention of the guests until after 4 o'clock when holders of high score were announced and rewarded with attractive gifts. Mrs. Charles Kendall sr. was presented with a handsome pair of composites of an unusual ware, imported from Italy.

Of similar ware was the pitcher which Mrs. Calvin Lester received as second prize while Mrs. C. W. Longmire, scoring low, was consoled by a charming bit of pottery also.

The rather lowering skies without made the brilliant lights and their reflection in Mrs. Scott's beautiful old mahogany all the cozier, and guests enjoying the pleasant atmosphere of the home included Mesdames O. H. Egge, George Briggs, Howard Timmons, W. A. Flood, O. K. Forgy, C. M. McCain, Adrian McCain, F. W. Slabough, Lewis Moulton, Charles Kendall sr., Calvin D. Lester, K. K. Trousseau Luncheon Is Presented By Miss
Flora McFadden

Presiding at a gay trousseau luncheon, Miss Flora McFadden, bride-elect, offered one of the pleasantest of the week's social events at her home, 906 North Main street.

Miss McFadden's betrothal to William Worden of Hollywood has been of keen interest to her many friends, especially among the Pomona College folk, for both the popular local girl and her fiancé are Pomona graduates, and the wedding is scheduled to take place in Bridges hall, sacred to college alumni alone.

In presenting her final pre-nuptial entertaining, Miss McFadden called together a congenial group of college mates including the members of her wedding party, the Misses Joy Wilcox, Bess Cram and Verdelle Breckinridge.

A sunny color effect was given the affair by the use of yellow dahlias and the girls formed a merry group around one large table for the enjoyment of a delectable three-course luncheon.

In the afternoon all exclaimed over the countless lovely gowns and dainty lingerie of the trousseau and the delights of the "glory-box" revealed, as Miss McFadden displayed her treasures to their admiring eyes. Gathered for the affair were Mrs. Frederick Northrup and the Misses Lucy Stotesbury, Bess Cram, Evelyn Payne, Helen Hankey, Dorothy Hewitt, Geneva Moremen, Annabel Chaney, Joy Wilcox, Ida Shiveley of Claremont, Lillie Johnson, Anaheim, Gladys Shepard, Compton, Kathleen Schoengard, Verdelle Breckinridge and the hostess-bride-elect, Miss McFadden.

Invitations are out for the wedding which will be an event of Saturday, October 13.

Junior High Faculty Enjoys Frolic at Beach Picnic

So thoroughly pleasant was the outing enjoyed Wednesday afternoon by the faculty of the Frances E. Willard Junior high school at Laguna Beach that plans are already under way to repeat the affair at various times during the school year.

Engineered by a competent committee composed of Mrs. Ethel Sinke, Miss Lillian Fitz and J. A. Randall, the pleasant event began with the departure for the beach, shortly after 3 o'clock. The same committee planned the supper, a glorified steak bake enjoyed around a glowing camp fire which offered both light and warmth for the program of impromptu fun which followed.

J. F. Adkinson kept the group in gales of laughter by his inimitable negro dialect stories each of which served to remind other raconteurs of clever tales. Miss Grace Carroll led in community singing at intervals.

The group enjoyed the affair and hoping for a second one in the near future, included Mrs. Nettie J. Wolfe, Mrs. Edith W. Thatcher, Mrs. Ethel Sinke, the Misses Florence Pixley, Nellie Clingan, Esther Carr, Roberta Briggs, Bertha Briney, Lillian Fitz, Fanny Pease, Elizabeth Wozencraft, Olive Wherry, Jeanette Wherry, Catherine Stewart, ouche Plumb, Grace Carroll, Georgia Cray, Alice Gamble, Esther Boose.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Archer, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Randall, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Horn, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cranston and J. F. Adkinson.

Talent Social Yields
Happy Afternoon

Over one hundred members and friends of the Christian church Aid society gathered at the community house Wednesday afternoon to learn the results of the members' investment of the original twenty-five cents with which they were entrusted a year ago in preparation for the "talent social."

Turning in the funds, each member related the means by which she had increased her sum—the stories offering the afternoon's entertainment. Beautiful clusters of Golden West and delicate dahlias and white rose-buds were used in decorating the community house and later were presented to the members turning in the largest sums. The dahlias were given by Mrs. Frank McCarter, Mrs. A. V. Napier and Mrs. Bruce Hayes while Mrs. James Robinson gave the rose-buds.

Winning the lovely flowers were Mrs. John Hall, turning in over sixteen dollars; Mrs. O. L. Mathews, fourteen dollars; Mrs. W. A. Huff, ten dollars; Mrs. Rosa Crane, twelve dollars. Mrs. George Huntington and Miss Blanche Cartmill reporting over eight dollars each, received rewards also. The sum reported Wednesday totaled over $200 and Mrs. T. D. Knights, Aid society president declared that sums yet to be turned in would swell the amount to over $300.

Community singing with Miss May Scholes at the piano, a prayer by Mrs. F. T. Porter and a duet, "Whispering Hope" by Mrs. Emma Chapman and Miss Viola Stevens with Mrs. C. C. Bonebrake of Orange at the piano, preceded the reports of the workers who had been divided into sections captained by Mrs. Roy Butler, Mrs. L. Crasher, Miss Carrie Carter, Mrs. T. P. Kingery, Mrs. Gambrill, Mrs. John Hall, Mrs. Will Hagthorn and Mrs. Frank Cannon.

A delightful musical program followed when Miss Stevens, a cousin of Mrs. L. N. Barnett, charmed everyone present by her beautiful voice and pleasing personality when she gave a song group. Fruitade and wafers added a pleasant friendliness to the social hour with which the afternoon was brought to a close.

MUSICIANS AND PLAYERS HEAR FROM PULPIT

Every Wednesday night as the churches' night this winter has been spoken for in a diplomatic resolution, passed at a meeting here of the Ministerial association, it became known today. The resolution, presented by the Rev. P. F. Schrock, pastor of the First Congregational church, was addressed to organizations in Santa Ana providing public entertainment. The Santa Ana Musical association, the Community Players and the Orange County Choral union specifically were named.

"Be it resolved that the Ministerial association of Santa Ana express to the Santa Ana Musical association, the Santa Ana Community players and the Orange County Choral union its sincere appreciation of the work these organizations are doing in developing the cultural life of the community, and in so doing providing public entertainment that is wholesome and uplifting in every respect; and that the Ministerial association desires to co-operate in every way that it can in carrying on the good work."

"And be it further resolved that the Ministerial association remind the Santa Ana Musical association, the Santa Ana Community players and the Orange County Choral union—and any other kindred organizations—that Wednesday evening is the time for the mid-week service in nearly all of the Santa Ana churches and that the Ministerial association respectfully requests these organizations, that so far as possible, they let the churches have Wednesday evening and their entertainments be given on the other nights of the week."

Missionary Society

BAPTIST
Presided over by Mrs. W. H. Harrison, recently installed with other newly-elected officers of the Baptist Women's society, an enjoyable all-day session was presented at the church Wednesday, opening with Red Cross work and sewing in the morning hours.

Noon luncheon was followed by the business session at 1:30 p. m., when Mrs. L. C. Fairbanks led in devotionals and Mrs. L. I. Baker and Mrs. Albert Hill each sang solos. Mrs. J. Wiley Harris, secretary, offered an interesting report of the society's work last year.

At 2:30 o'clock Miss Grace Roberts presented the program on the subject, "Children, America's Hope." Three interesting phases of the subject were presented. Mrs. Maynard, who lived and worked among New York immigrants, spoke of "Children of Immigrants" and declared that dwellers in this section really had no problems in comparison with those of the eastern coast.

"The Responsibility of the Church for Higher Education" was discussed by Miss Jennie Lasby, and the program was closed by Miss Alice Jacobs, kindergarten and playground superintendent of Los Angeles, whose subject was "Play-Life of America's Children."

SPURGEON MEMORIAL
The all-day meeting of the Missionary society of Spurgeon Memorial church was held Wednesday in the church parlors. In the forenoon the Bible study on the Book of Jude was conducted by Mrs. Henry Donan.

Special prayers were offered for the success of the coming revival. The first chapter of the new mission study book, "The Child and America's Future," was reviewed by Mrs. Rhodes.

Luncheon was served at noon by the ladies of the church. At 2 o'clock the business meeting of the society was held, also the literary meeting which was in charge of Mrs. McGill and helpers.

CONGREGATIONAL
The regular all-day meeting of the Woman's union and Missionary department of the First Congregational church was held in the church parlors Wednesday. The business session of the union was in charge of the president, Mrs. Mary Hobart. While the ladies served, plans were made for the annual bazaar, to be held in December.

At noon all enjoyed a bountiful picnic lunch, which was served by the hostesses for the day, Mesdames O'Brien, Neff, McFadden, Mead and Pendell.

At the afternoon session of the Missionary department, the president, Mrs. C. F. Crose, was in charge, also leading in the devotional service. Miss Ada O'Brien reviewed the second chapter of the study book, "The Creative Forces in Japan" in her usual comprehensive and instructive manner.

Music for the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. W. G. Knox, who led in "Jubilee" songs, accompanied by Mrs. Moxley. The program for the afternoon closed with a report of the W. B. M. P. annual meeting recently held in San Francisco, given in a novel manner by Mrs. Sallie Powell, assisted by the "Jubilee committee," Mrs. A. J. Crookshank, Mrs. E. M. Nealley and Mrs. H. C. McCord.

Mrs. C. F. Crose then closed the session with some of her own impressions of the San Francisco meeting.

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN
The Woman's Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church held a very enjoyable all-day meeting Wednesday at the home of Miss Jennie Cook 1920 Bush street. Each took a prepared dish and a splendid dinner was served at noon when a very pleasant social hour was enjoyed.

At 2:30 the president Mrs. William Smart, called the meeting to order and Mrs. Finley McFadden led the devotional service. The regular program was dispensed with and Mrs. John Meikle of Central China was given the time. Mrs. Meikle and her husband have been missionaries in China for thirty years and she gave a most interesting account of the work and the people of China. A number of banners on display on which Chinese characters were printed were explained by the speaker. Many questions were asked and answered and many other articles exhibited.

Mrs. McPeak, wife of the new pastor of the church, was welcomed into the society and spoke a few words.

A quiz on the work in Egypt and the Sudan was conducted by Mrs. J. T. Raitt.

The next meeting will be held in the church November 8.

FIRST METHODIST
Meeting Wednesday afternoon in the church parlors with Mrs. John Clarkson first vice-president, in the chair the Home Missionary society of the First M. E. church was opened by devotionals led by Mrs. Will A. Betts on the theme, "Service to Others."

The name of Mrs. W. B. Snow was presented by the nominating committee as president and Mrs. Snow was unanimously elected to the office. A program committee of Miss Collings and Mrs. Wiesseman announced.

A most interesting report of the Frances De Pauw home and school in Los Angeles was given by Mrs. F. Wiesseman who told of progress in the work until now there are 125 girls being cared for and another building added this last year.

At the next meeting there will be a shower for this home when any useful article will be very acceptable.

Mrs. L. Lounsbury read a letter in regard to the Yuma Indian work and Mrs. Marston spoke of fruit to be sent to different homes. Mrs. C. W. Burns in her report of the branch meeting held in Los Angeles, told of funds raised by the society. Mrs. John Clarkson spoke especially of work done for and by young people and also spoke of Mrs. Northrup's wonderful report of her work.

Mrs. Snow told of address of Miss Burroughs regarding work among the negroes, and of the great impression made on all by the spirit of the convention. Hostesses were appointed for the Queen Esther meetings to be held during the year.

Miss Holt, in a very feeling manner sang "The Wyandotte's Lament." Mrs. Clarkson gave a synopsis of the latter part of chapter one of the study book "The Child and America's Future."

Personals

Mrs. W. C. Mayes of Orange avenue was en route to Franklin, La., having received a message telling of the serious illness of her father, aged 92, who lives in the southern city.

Friends here of Mrs. Ralph Haynes learned with regret today of her serious illness. She is confined to her home on South Main street.

Arriving in this city from Centerville, Iowa, George A. Myers and family were visitors today at the Chamber of Commerce where they reported an interesting motor trip westward and indicated their intention of locating in Santa Ana.

Greeting his old-time friend, D. W. McDannald, publicity director of Orange county and other friends, Frank P. Doyle, president of one of Santa Rosa's national banks and also president of the Santa Rosa Chamber of Commerce, was one of the city's interesting guests for the day.

Among Santa Anans who will motor to Carlsbad, in San Diego county, for Avocado day fete there Saturday are Mr. and Mrs. George E. Humphrey. They will leave this city Friday to attend to business affairs, in addition.

Miss Jessie Katherine Blocke, a granddaughter of Colonel R. S. Kimberlin, 1616 South Main street, who has been attending the Orange County Business college here for the past several months, left yesterday for her home at Hondo, Texas.

Realtor's Auxiliary

Marked by an informal program, yesterday's session of the Board of Realtors' auxiliary at the gold room of Owens' confectionery yielded a most interesting series of talks by members on "The value of the auxiliary to the Realtors' board."

Mrs. Carl Mock, president, introduced the topic and responded to her suggestion offered ideas both wise and otherwise. All were agreed that the value lay in publicity given worthy movements, in the community of interests established between the members and their husbands, aid in educational matters and civic progress and the furthering of acquaintanceship and friendship.

Mrs. Max Smith gave an interesting account of the visit of the late President Harding and Mrs. Harding to Alaska and the reception accorded them.

State Realtors' convention plans were discussed with some dozen members signifying their intention of going to Sacramento for the event. A signal honor has been accorded the auxiliary (first of its kind in the state) by the including of the president, Mrs. Mock on the convention program as speaker. Mrs. Mock has also been asked to contribute an article to the realtors' magazine on the organization.

WORK ON S. F. BAY SPAN IS UNDER WAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4.—Construction of Carquinez bridge, to span San Francisco bay at its narrowest point, between Vallejo and Crockett, has commenced. Within twenty-two months the giant structure will be completed and ready for traffic, according to officials of the American Toll Bridge Company, which is behind the venture.

From its base to its highest point the bridge will have a total height of 435 feet, while its entire length, including approaches, will be about a mile. In completing this project more than four million dollars will be expended.

This briefly describes the venture that will connect Northern California with the bay district by a direct and shorter route and which will be the first pedestrian and automobile bridge to span the bay.

435 Feet High

Although the bridge will actually have a vertical height of 435 feet, only 300 feet will be visible, the preliminary survey made by the engineers shows that the channel at this point of the bay is eighty-five feet deep. To reach bed-rock, a hole fifty feet deep must be drilled below the surface, making the total depth of the pier below water level 135 feet.

The roadway of the bridge will be 150 feet above water level and the bridge structure will tower 150 feet higher than the roadbed. The elevation of the bridge is high enough to permit any large seagoing vessel to pass beneath without trouble.

The roadbed of the bridge is to be forty-two feet in width, of which thirty feet will be for automobile traffic and six feet on each side will be devoted to pedestrian traffic. It is estimated that ten million cars will pass over the bridge annually.

The bridge is to be built in four spans with five piers and two approaches. Three of the piers will be in the channel and the other two on each bank. Two of the spans will be 1100 feet in length and the other two are 500 feet long.

The same organization which is building the bridge has started and operated the Golden Gate Ferry and the Rodeo-Vallejo Ferry of which Aven J. Hanford of San Francisco is the president.

Hanford has selected prominent engineers throughout the nation to build the structure, William H. Burr of New York is chief consulting engineer, while Charles Durelle Jr., dean of the department of engineering at the University of California, is chief engineer.

Ferry to be Stopped

When the bridge is finished and opened to the public, the Rodeo-Vallejo ferry service will be discontinued, according to Hanford.

Representatives of the three counties bridge committee, officials of the bridge company residents of the vicinity and others, numbering almost a thousand, gathered Saturday afternoon to witness the anchoring ceremony which represented the first work done on the bridge work. The company has been at work since April, however in preliminary work.

The bridge committee, composed of civic workers from Solano, Napa and Contra Costa counties, has for years attempted to obtain a bridge across the bay at Carquinez strait, but no organization would attempt its construction in the past, due to the high velocity of water running

Ex-Cavalry Captain, Jailed Here, Indicted As Army Embezzler

Ernest F. Apeldorn Jr., formerly captain of cavalry in the United States army, and recently an automobile salesman here, today had been ordered by United States Commissioner Long, Los Angeles, to be returned to El Paso, Tex., to answer indictments returned by a federal grand jury, charging him with embezzling a check, calling for the payment of $248.96.

Police here were awaiting the arrival of a warrant, when Apeldorn's arrest was hastened through his connection with the unsanctioned borrowing of an automobile for a "jorride."

The money, it was asserted, was obtained from the funds of the 13th cavalry troop, the check being drawn on a Texas bank.

MURPHY PUPILS PLEASE KFAW AIR FANS

An excellent program was broadcast last night by KFAW when James Sanborn Murphy and his pupils, assisted by Mrs. Grace Weiler, pianiste, and Joseph Pantaleone, lyric tenor, appeared at The Register studio. The program was of high quality throughout and each artist displayed unusual musical talent and training.

Mrs. Marie Thurston Harding, soprano, and Master James Victor Rankin, both pupils of Mr. Murphy, reflected great credit upon their teacher. Joseph Pantaleone sang several numbers, among them a selection from Rigoletto in Italian. James Sanborn Murphy's splendid baritone voice was heard in several song groups which included two numbers written and composed by himself. Mrs. Grace Weiler acted as the accompanist of the evening.

The program offered was made up of the following numbers: Song group "Invictus" (Huhn), "When Soft Winds Blow" (Guedy), "An Emblem" (Thompson), James Sanborn Murphy, baritone. Song group, "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling" (Tate) and "In Love" (Lohr), Master James Victor Rankin; song group, "Life's Twilight" (Speaks) and "Mary Jane" (Clarke), Marie Thurston Harding, soprano; vocal solo, "A Little Bit of Heaven" (Ball), Master Rankin; vocal solo, "In Maytime" (Speaks), Marie Thurston Harding; vocal solo, "When the Stars Were Brightly Shining" from the opera, La Tosca, by Puccini, Joseph Pantaleone, tenor; song group, "An Answer" (Murphy), Mr. Murphy, baritone; song group, "An Answer" (Murphy) and "In Italy" (Boyd), Mr. Murphy, baritone; song group, "Marcheta" (Schert-zinger) and "Woman So Changeable" from the opera, Rigoletto, by Verdi, Mr. Pantaleone, tenor; song group, "The Gypsy" (Kirkman), and "Thine Own Lovely Eyes" (Murphy), Mr. Murphy, baritone.

Having obtained this bridge, it was announced that attempts would now be made to construct a bridge at Sears Point, connecting Napa, Solano and Marin counties.

SUMMER, COLD WEATHER GAS NEARLY ALIKE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5.—Summer gasoline and winter gasoline are becoming more and more alike, states a department of the interior report as the result of a survey recently made by the bureau of mines of the motor fuels sold in various cities of the country. This seasonal variation in the characteristics of summer and winter gasolines, though still present, has nearly reached an apparent state of minimum fluctuation, the bureau found.

The survey just completed is the eighth semi-annual motor gasoline survey made by the bureau of mines. Gasolines were tested as found in the markets of New York, Washington, Pittsburgh, Chicago, New Orleans, St. Louis, Denver, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, and Bartlesville, Okla.

The present survey shows an interruption in the apparent tendency toward greater uniformity in the character of gasolines marketed in various sections of the United States, which had been indicated in the surveys made from April, 1917, to January, 1923, and which had been arrived at, by averaging the end points, of the 10 per cent of the least volatile and most volatile samples of gasoline. The difference in average end points, which amounted to 115 degrees in April, 1917, had decreased to 54 degrees in January, 1923, and rose to 81 degrees in the survey just completed.

Lusty Shout Rout Burglars from Man's North Main Grocery

S. E. Cook saved the groceries in his store at 2221 North Main street last night by a healthy shout.

He reported to police today that he was awakened by movements of persons in his store. His outcry, he said, frightened them away. Investigation showed that two men, it was reported, had entered the store by forcing a spring lock off the front door. Nothing was reported missing.

OFFICER INJURED.

An injured knee as result of a tussle with Frank Fox, arrested on a charge of drunkenness, will keep F. E. Howell, police officer, off his beat for a few days, it was reported today.

July, 1923, surveys show, on the whole, very little difference in the boiling point range of the gasoline sold during July of last year and that sold during July of this year. Comparison of the January, 1923, and July, 1923, surveys brings out distinctly the difference between summer and winter grades of gasoline. The differences indicate a seemingly slight decrease in volatility in the gasoline sold during the present summer.

Of the 158 samples collected, 109 failed to meet the federal specifications revised October 21, 1922. The departure from federal specifications in the majority of samples analyzed does not, however, exceed a few degrees.

Detailed results of the distillation tests are contained in Serial 2625, which may be obtained from the bureau of mines, Washington, D. C.

AIM OF KEEPING PUPILS HOME AT NIGHT IS ANNOUNCED

Principal Sees No Need of Holding Meetings at High School After Dark

STUDY HOUR OUTLINED

Class Room Work First In Importance; Activities Second, Is Claim

If high school boys and girls aren't studying every evening at the family fireside, it won't be the fault of the school.

This was understood to be the purpose behind the announcement today by D. K. Hammond, principal of the high school, that school clubs and organizations must hold meetings in the afternoon, instead of at night.

In order to carry out this policy, Hammond is preparing a schedule of meetings, by which each organization in the school will be assigned a meeting afternoon. All meetings must be called according to this schedule and special sessions called only after the schedule has been consulted, it was pointed out.

"This will do away with conflicts," said Hammond, "will give each organization plenty of time to hold its meetings and will do away with night gatherings, which

Students Vie In Essay Contest For Salvation Army

"If you want to put anything over in Santa Ana, get the high school behind it and over it goes."

This high school student body was told this morning by P. S. Lucas, secretary of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' association, as he announced an essay contest for the high school to aid in the Salvation Army drive in this city.

With the topic, "Is It Worth While," high school students are to write essays of from 100 to 500 words, to be handed in Thursday, October 11. Prizes of $5 and $3 have been offered to each group—high school, junior college and junior high school—for the best essays telling of the value of the Salvation Army work to Santa Ana.

Beach Residents In Fight to Save Lots From Foreclosures

Opposition to the attempts of Sneddon and Blanchard, paying contractors, to foreclose on various pieces of property at Newport Beach to satisfy liens based on unpaid paving assessments, had developed today in the superior court with the filing of demurrers by four of the defendants. The group was represented by the legal firm of Scarborough, Forgy and Reinhaus.

Ten additional foreclosure suits were filed late yesterday by the contractors, bringing the total of actions thus brought to exactly 100.

DESCRIBES HOW NEAR EAST IN WAR SHADOW

Treaty of Versailles 'Only Made Matters Worse,' Says 'Y' Worker

How the dark cloud of war yet hovers over Southeastern Europe, where all the little nations hold grievances against each other, and yet, because they lack resources, remain at peace, was told here today in a letter that Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Tidball, 1321 West Fourth street, received from their son, Charles T. Tidball, traveling auditor for the International committee, Y. M. C. A., with headquarters at Geneva, Switzerland.

Writing September 15, last, young Tidball stated that the strongest impression that remained with him following a two-months' trip over the Near East, was that the countries there were far from a satisfactory basis of peace.

"From the time I left Switzerland," he wrote, "until I returned, I did not enter a country that did not hate one or more of its neighbors. The Versailles treaty and the events succeeding it have only made matters worse. Only the various nations' lack of resources necessary to carry on war prevents the outbreak of hostilities."

Accompanied by Mrs. Tidball, the auditor left Geneva June 1 for Velden, a summer resort in the southern part of Austria, to attend a conference of Y. M. C. A. workers.

ORANGE COUNTY PROPERTY GAIN 6TH IN STATE

Huge Valuation Increase Is Made Following Stride Here For Year 1922

Following its phenomenal gain of $22,845,286 in total assessed valuation in the fiscal year 1921-22, Orange county's $9,339,825 increase for the past year ranked favorably with other counties in the state showing gains, figures which today had been released by Ray L. Riley, state controller, revealed.

Some of the larger northern counties "snapped out of it" during the past fiscal year and, instead of showing decreases in assessed values, made gains sufficient to dislodge Orange county from second place, in the state gain column in 1922, to sixth place in 1923, it was disclosed.

This year, however, only the larger populated counties of Los Angeles, San Francisco, Alameda, Fresno, and Sacramento rank the "Nature's Wonderland community" in the value of the property within their confines. Of these, San Francisco, Fresno and Sacramento showed valuation losses in the 1921-22 period.

Actual increase $20,000,000.

Comparative figures, held up until the state board of equalization computed railroad valuations in the various counties, showed that this railroad gain in property in Orange county during the fiscal year just past totaled $545,865.80. This, according to W. C. Jerome, county auditor, represents the value of rail equipment and other property added by the Union Pacific entry into the county.

Operative property in the county increased in assessed total $7,850,150 during the past year, while the non-operative property gain was $858,290, Jerome's figures showed.

Property assessed for taxation purposes is carried on the books of county auditors and the state board of equalization at only 45 per cent of its true value, it was pointed out. On this basis, Orange county property values have increased during the past year more than $20,755,000, S. Calif. in Lead.

Southern California property values far outstripped the rest of the state in increases, though valuations increased in 1923 faster than at any period in the state's history. To those close to the situation, it was declared, the figures portrayed a phenomenal force forward by the state entirely unsupported.

Gains in some of the larger counties for 1923 follow:

County	Gain.
Los Angeles	$418,665,347
Sacramento	9,930,446
Alameda	31,079,604
San Francisco	58,082,391
Fresno	12,156,391

BARONESS FROM RUSSIA TELLS NATIVE CHAOS

"I appeal to you and to your government not to permit bolshevists of Russia to come to this country and, from soap box stands on the streets, tell you how to run this government. I would prefer that this government adopt laws that would send this type of Russians back to Russia, and send them back with special delivery stamps on their backs."

Baroness Ottilie de Ropp, formerly of Petrograd, Russia, with this appeal, yesterday, closed an intensely interesting address on the present Russia at the weekly meeting of the Lions club at St. Ann's Inn.

The speaker and her husband came to America after the Germans had devastated the estates of the husband. Her lecture dealt entirely with conditions in Russia at the present time, her information being based on private correspondence with relatives and friends.

Starvation in the soviet government, she said: "Do you think it is a government by and for the people when 60,000,000 people are permitted to starve?"

BY ELEANOR ELLIOTT

"Toot-toot-toot!"

With that phone number—it's more like an imitation of the whistle of a slow train through Arkansas—you can get James C. Metzgar, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, most any time at his office in the city hall.

At least that's the way we got him and persuaded him that a little chat with him across the big golden oak desk in his private office was a consummation devoutly to be wished (Shakespeare).

He is a busy man Metzgar, with a dozen different irons in the fire at once—all being heated to brand the mark of progress on Santa Ana.

"Perhaps I might be called a visionary," he ruminated in the intervals between a succession of telephone calls with which our conversation was punctuated. "I seem to me that a man doing my kind of work has to be a visionary first and a worker second. For if we don't have visions toward which we worked I fear the work itself would be futile."

And, with his own characteristic grin, Metzgar launched into a reminiscence account of the brief excursion into chamber of commerce by-ways many years ago in Pennsylvania, his native state, which gave him the taste for the work—a taste which was developed several years later when he came to Santa Ana and became secretary of the local Chamber, a position he has filled for eleven years.

But not always did Metzgar think in terms of community service such as a C. of C. secretaryship affords. No indeed, his boyhood ambitions pointed the way to nothing less than the presidency of a railroad. To him those youthful ambitions promised quicker realization by starting on the dot and dash system and, as a telegraph agent, he dreamed of the ticking key. But the road seemed all dots and few dashes toward his goal, so he returned to his first love.

Like all persons whose enthusiasms keep them alive and young and will until they are 90 years old, Metzgar has hobbies. Or we might almost say he has a hobby. For if there is one thing above another that he would like to do, short of establishing the city recreational park on the site purchased by the Chamber of Commerce and held by it for that purpose, it would be to mount a spirited horse with at least three good gaits and follow a bridle-path "over the world and under the world" (that's Kipling).

Counting his hobby-horse, Metzgar's eyes sparkled as he outlined a plan whereby lovers of riding might maintain a mount and enjoy the unpaved highways of the county, especially in Lemon Heights and Irvine ranch districts—and (maintaining his business acumen), at a very nominal expense, were they to pool together

CRUDE LETTER FROM REALTY MAN SHOWN

J. C. Wallace, secretary of the Santa Ana Board of Realtors, today was exhibiting a letter received from a real estate broker of Los Angeles, as evidence that there is real need for the examination now required by state law before a person can procure a license to do business.

"Judging from the manner in which this letter is written, I imagine this particular dealer would have rather a difficult time in drawing up any of the legal papers a dealer is called on to prepare in negotiating a transaction," said Wallace.

The letter, verbatim, is as follows: "The santaana realty bord 'santaana californa 'gentleman I have a cash customer, for sevel 5-10 and 20 acer orchards, if I can fine good ones and priced worth the money, I want orange and walnut orchards. prefer them located between losangeles and red lands, or in red lands, but will consider good property in your section, or around anihime. SCHOOL YOUTHS IN VAST DRUGS REVELRY GAIN AT 'PARTIES,' IS CLAIM

Many Girls and Boys Now In So. Calif. Declared On 'Snowy' Pathway

400 'DOPE' USERS HERE

Narcotics Expert Reiterates Menace of 'Ring' Lured By Movies

Are the high school students of Southern California attending "snow parties" and falling easy prey to the subtle allurements of those at the head of the so-called "drug ring?"

"Yes," declared Richmond P. Hobson, head of the International Narcotic Education association, answering a question asked by a Register representative, following Hobson's appearance here before the directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

"I told the directors," said Hobson, "that there were probably 400 drug users in Santa Ana, and that such users were a constant menace to school children."

Use N. Y. State as Basis.

"These figures are based upon the study of national conditions made by the government in which it was brought out that fully 500,000 men, women and children in New York state are drug users, in one form or another. If we pursue this investigation, we find that between 2 and 3 per cent of the residents of the United States have fallen victim to this evil."

"Using this as a basis, after consultation with the respective district attorneys and federal officers, we are able to estimate, with some little accuracy, the number of addicts in the cities of Southern California, particularly near the great centers of population."

Work From Los Angeles.

"Take a city like Los Angeles, for example, with its many suburbs and its great moving picture colonies. Our investigators find that scores of workers, closely identified with the narcotic ring, work in and out of the city. These workers not only supply drug users in Los Angeles, but they operate quietly in other cities, including Pasadena, Hollywood, Glendale, Culver City, San Diego, Santa Ana, Anaheim and other cities."

"Close investigation shows that these nefarious workers do not hesitate to ply their trade in the schools of the Southland. It has been found that a high school boy or school girl will fall easy prey to these allurements, once the way has been paved. Our investigators and those employed by the federal authorities, find that many boys and girls of school age attend 'snow parties.'"

Heroin, New Drug, Used.

"At these 'snow parties,' much heroin is used. Heroin, we find, is rapidly displacing cocaine, morphine and other drugs formerly used by addicts. This drug has a peculiar effect, causing exaltation of the ego, and quickly bringing the victim under its domination. A high school student will become a hopeless addict in less than six months, unless prompt measures are taken to break the grip of the drug."

"Heroin is peculiarly vicious, in that it destroys

"Blockades are not the reason for starvation in Russia. It is the result of the government taking 90 per cent of the crops raised. The peasant farmers simply refuse to farm. They say they would rather starve without working than work and starve. It is because of the treatment the farmers received that wheat now has to be imported into that country."

Referring to published reports that grain is being exported from that country, she said it was not because of surplus production, but because the government had secured the product by extortion and was shipping it out of the country for financial gain.

She recited alleged conditions in Petrograd, where 20,000 apartments had been abandoned because of the lack of proper sewer facilities and of the demolishing of wooden houses to secure fire wood.

She asserted that state banks are charging from 12 to 16 per cent per month for interest.

"As evidence that the people of Russia do not believe in the future of the soviet government, it may be cited that those who have money are sending it to foreign countries to deposit in banks," said the speaker.

She declared she had reliable information to the effect that the soviet government has established a bank in Berlin, Germany, for the express purpose of getting rid of loot in the form of valuables taken from persons who had been executed, and from the populace in general.

She asserted that Trotsky in less than three years accumulated a personal gold reserve of 60,000,000 gold rubles, which he took with him to Switzerland.

The baroness said that her oldest son was kept in a dungeon for nine months and that it was five years after she left Petrograd before she heard from him. The life of her son, she said, was saved by the influence of Maxim Gorki, Russian writer. His wife was held as hostage in Bolshevik prisons for seven years, she said. The son was forced to work for two years for the bolshevik government in assessing the food products of peasants. With his wife, he escaped to Lithuania in 1921.

She has never heard from her youngest son and does not know whether he is dead or alive. Garand Ross was chairman and the craft talk was given by Claude Killen on J. A. George, manager of the Federal Finance company.

and hire a care-taker and pasturage.

Metzgar is, furthermore, an exponent of divorce. Wait a minute, there's more to come. He believes that when a business man is on pleasure bent he should divorce himself absolutely from his office; close the door, lock it and throw the key away.

"I have schooled myself to leave office and business affairs completely behind me when I close my desk at night," he declared. "Otherwise, a man breaks under the strain of continually living with his business. He is never fresh when I work, I work, but when I play I want to play just as hard, and so I do it. If it is dancing, swimming, riding, motoring or golfing, I get everything possible out of it. And while in one way, perhaps, it tires me, yet it refreshes and re-creates as well."

Principles of his luncheon club appeal to this enthusiastic Rotarian, who endorses the statement of the International Association of Rotary Clubs that "Every Rotarian should be a chamber of commerce member."

And be it known that Metzgar is the proud father of an interesting family including, in addition to a young son and a charming daughter, the Chamber of Commerce auto camp park, and that insty infant, the old fair grounds site, a possible recreational park for the Santa Ana of the future, in whose growth and development he hopes to see his dearest dreams realized.

Windowless Shanties Blamed for Divorce

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 1.—Life in shanties, sometimes without windows, is complained of in a divorce suit filed in the superior court by Mrs. Clara Myrtle Traux against Nathaniel Lee Traux. The complaint avers Traux refused to properly provide the necessities of life for his wife and seven children and told Mrs. Traux he no longer loved her.

While temporarily residing at Smith's Flat in El Dorado county, she claims Traux became angry when she stated there was no sleeping quarters for the children and said "what is good enough for me is good enough for them."

many spots claimed to be the most beautiful in the world, and stopped for a few days in Vienna, where we have friends," wrote Tidball. "Austria unquestionably is making a great effort to get back on her feet, but the task is greater than most people realize. The peace treaty took away nearly all her natural resources, leaving beautiful mountains and a city, built to be the capital of an empire, but far too great for the small republic."

Finds Vienna Sad
"Vienna, which, before the war, was the gayest city of Europe, after Paris, is a sad place now. There is still a certain amount of gaiety and a great deal of luxury, but it is no difficult to see that those who throw their money about so recklessly are either foreigners, profiting by the rate of exchange, or 'nouveau riches' who have profited by the war and the peculiar economic situation. In contrast, the great majority of the people, and especially the former well-to-do, find it extremely difficult to provide the bare necessities of life."

"After the conference we went to Budapest, where we stopped for a day only. We found the cost of living much lower here than in Austria. In fact, Hungary is the cheapest country that we visited on this trip. Since the stabilization of the crown, Austria is no longer the cheap country to live in that it used to be, although it still costs less than in high valuta countries. "Budapest is very beautifully situated on the Danube and before the war must have been delightful. Now it is terribly run down, and presents many a picture of poverty. Everything is ill kept and in need of repair. At Budapest, although the people still spoke a language I could understand, we felt that we were about to leave western civilization."

"Our next stop was Bucarest, where we stayed a week. Roumania is a rich country; life is cheap and easy. Consequently the people are extremely lazy. The chief sport in Bucarest is promenading in the evening and giving each other the 'once over.' A stranger coming in on 'most' any evening would think that the city had come to town. The principal streets are almost as crowded as Pasadena's on the first of January. Bucarest is noted for its beautiful women and horses, and quite justly so. French is spoken by the majority of the people. The women are very poor housekeepers. When they go out in the street they are dressed 100 per cent but their homes are disorderly and often filthy. We began to come into contact with countries whose creed of cleanliness is quite different from ours."

Few Signs of Revolt
"We arrived in Sofia just a few days after the revolution, but, except for restricted circulation after 11 p. m., no one could have guessed that anything unusual had taken place. Sofia is an interesting city, and less filthy at this season than in the winter. Like all the countries in the proximity of old Russia it is full of Russian refugees, who have passed through misery after misery until they have become callous to all forms of suffering. Most of these refugees belong to the former nobility, or were officers in the army or navy. There are few useful things that they know how to do, and they are very slow adapting themselves to their environment. "After a four days' wait for the Turks to open up their frontier, which they had temporarily closed against Americans, we were allowed to go on to Constantinople, which is, of course, the most interesting of the cities that we visited. In it is to be found the most varied and heterogeneous group of peoples that exists in any city of the world. We were quite impressed by St. Sofia, thoroughly disgusted by the howling and whirling dervishes, and interested by the Caliph at his prayers. Mrs. Tidball was fascinated by the famous bazaar where she greatly enjoyed bargaining with the old Moslems. Mrs. Tidball was asked to sing for Admiral and Mrs. Bristol with the Admiral on his motor boat up the Bosphorus to the Black sea. The shores of the Bosphorus must be seen to be appreciated. We spent a day in Asia Minor, at a camp conducted by the Y. M. C. A. for American sailors, where Mrs. Tidball was greatly interested by a visit to a real harem that of the former sultan of the Kurd nation in which lives the most beautiful girl that she has ever seen. We left Constantinople just at the time peace was signed at Lausanne and there was at that time a great deal of anxiety and apprehension on the part of the Christian population, for, as you can imagine, they haven't much confidence in the promises of the Turk. "Thirty-six hours in a train sleeper, without conveniences, crawling from one miserable station to another, stopping for hours at a time, passing through the Greek military zone where our passports were examined a dozen times, and we finally arrived in Salonica."

"From Salonica we went to Athens by boat in company with about 1000 sheep who took up the deck space. August is not the time to visit Athens, for in addition to the heat, there is a sort of wind, resembling what you in Santa Ana call a 'desert wind,' and what everybody else in Southern California calls a 'Santa Ana.' We went to visit Marathon, where the Y. M. C. A. has erected summer camp, which was then housing more than a hundred refugee orphan boys between the ages of six and fourteen."

"We went from Piraeus to Brindisi by boat, stopping for a few hours at Corfu, which the Italians are now occupying. We spent two days in beautiful Venice and stopped in Milan long enough to see the Cathedral and Da Vinci's 'The Last Supper.' We were very tired when we reached Geneva, but Mrs. Tidball was glad to have accompanied me even if summer is not the ideal time to visit that part of the world."

Aim of Keeping Pupils Home At Nights Announced

preclude studying in the evenings. "School is out at 3 o'clock and there is no reason for not holding meetings in the afternoon. Another advantage of the afternoon meetings is that the students who live in the country will be able to attend meetings."

"Class room work must come first this year," continued Hammond. "School activities logically are secondary to studies. "The organizations now in the school, however, are desirable and profitable, but all organizations must be kept within the limits for which they were intended. "Every student should study at least one hour every evening. Unless the student did not have to do some work at home there would be something wrong. We aim to see that he has school work to do outside of school hours."

POMONA SAVANT GOES EAST FOR CHURCH MEET

CLAREMONT, Oct. 4.—President James A. Blaisdell of Pomona college leaves early next week for Springfield, Mass., to attend the national council of Congregational churches, which is held there during the week of October 16. This is the biennial national meeting of the Congregational churches of the nation, and is made up of delegates elected by state conferences and local associations of churches.

This is the most important meeting of the Congregational churches of America, and will bring together leaders from all parts of the country. It is expected that at least 2000 visitors will be in attendance. In addition to the address, which will be given by leading men and women of several denominations, there will be reports of the various commissions which have been making a close study of important questions; among these are the commission of social service, which will discuss how the church may best help in solving industrial problems; the commission on evangelism, which will report the spiritual life of the churches; and the commission on comity, co-operation and federation, which will report concerning the growing movement towards church unity and will suggest plans to hasten this movement to its completion. Another important matter which will come before the council, is the first biennial report of Dr. George W. Nash, president of the Congregational foundation for education, created in 1921 to co-ordinate and further the educational program of the church.

"Congregationalism has always stood for democracy and religion in its educational enterprises," Blaisdell said, "and has planned colleges of this type, beginning with Harvard, across the continent to Pomona, which represent in the highest measure the Congregational ideal of public education, of religious freedom, and of political democracy."

"Southern California has two members of this educational foundation, Dr. George F. Kennegott of Los Angeles, and myself, both having prominent parts in determining its future policies."

On his way east, Blaisdell will stop at Chicago, to speak at the founders' day banquet of Pomona college alumni. For this meeting, William S. Mason, one of the trustees of the college and donor of Mason hall of chemistry, has opened his home in Evanston.

POEM INCLUDED IN BULLETIN OF CITY SCHOOLS

A poem found its way into the first issue of the Santa Ana city school bulletin published at the office of J. A. Cranston, city school superintendent. The publication, similar to house organs, school papers and similar publications, has been created here for the benefit of faculty members, it was said. The complete first issue announced:

"For sometime the need of frequent communication between this office and the principals and teachers of the various schools in our school system has been apparent. Our schools have grown so rapidly in the past few years creating new conditions and new problems that some form of inter-communication would seem necessary to make our combined efforts more efficient. The bulletin has been decided upon as the form of communication and the frequency of issues will depend upon the nature of the material to be communicated.

"The pages of the bulletin will be open at all times to teachers and principals for any matters of interest they wish to share with other members of our faculty. We may find it advisable from time to time to ask the faculty of one of our schools to contribute the material for one issue.

"The attention of principals and teachers is called to 'Fire Prevention Week,' October 8 to 13, inclusive. Each principal should see to it that a thorough inspection is made of school buildings for loose paper, oil rags and any combustible substances. Teachers should give instruction in the proper care and use of matches, how to avoid fires and how to extinguish them in their homes. The various forms of carelessness in causing fires should be emphasized. The vast destruction of property, of homes and lives through carelessness in the use of fire should be brought home to pupils in an impressive way. Miscellaneous circular No. 7 on 'A Forest Fire Prevention Handbook for the School Children of California' is being distributed to each school. This circular contains valuable information and illustrations on forest fires.

"The rapid increase in the number of automobiles used for pleasure and business has increased the danger of accidents from motor traffic. Reports of injuries and death from auto accidents fill our daily papers and should be a constant reminder of the importance of instruction on 'Safety First' to our pupils. Pupils should be thoroughly conversant with the motor traffic rules and regulations, and the signals that motorists should give when turning corners and driving on the highways. Much emphasis should be placed on the danger from accidents in crossing streets and especially at any other place than street intersections.

"An innovation at the senior high this year is the organization of a principal's council. Five teachers were elected by secret ballot to serve as an advisory council to the principal. Those chosen were: Misses Harris and Stein, Messrs. Beeman, Crites and Gardner. This organization will act as a cabinet which the principal may call together whenever their advice is needed. It will have an organization of its own and hold meetings at the call of the chairman to discuss matters pertaining to the welfare of the school. Recommendations to the principal will be made from time to time. It is expected that this small group, which can easily be called together, will serve as a more effective advisory body than the heads and directors of departments.

"The attached short poem by Nixon Waterman is herewith presented for its worthwhile sentiment. It is entitled 'If We Knew.'

"If I knew you and you knew me,
If both of us could clearly see,
And with an inner sight divine,
The meaning of your heart and mine,
I'm sure that we should differ less,

And clasp our hands in friendliness.
Our thoughts would pleasantly agree,
If I knew you and you knew me.

"If I knew you and you knew me,
As each one knows his own self,
We could look each other in the face,
And see therein a truer grace.
Life has so many hidden woes,
So many thorns for every rose,
The 'why' of things our heart would see,
If I knew you and you knew me."

MANY COLORED UNIFORMS DUE FOR SESSION

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—The fifth annual convention of the American Legion, to be held in San Francisco October 15 to 19, gives promise of being the most colorful gathering ever seen in any city. Garbed in many-hued costumes, arrayed with decorations representing the various delegations, the huge number of Legion visitors will present a kaleidoscopic appearance in the picturesque Western city.

The "O. D." of the army will predominate, but the great number of sailors with the Pacific fleet which is to be at anchor near the convention city is expected to lend plenty of blue to the occasion. The horizon blue caps of the "Forty and Eight" will be seen in large numbers, to recall Legion.

the comradeship of the poilus to the overseas men.

A Mexican delegation will appear in the complete charro costume of that nation; some will wear Hawaiian leis and costumes of the islanders; the Texas delegation will be seen in plainsman garb with the "five-gallon" hats; and dozens of other attractive and bizarre dresses will lend a spirited tone to the events of the five days.

The bands and drum corps play an important part in the color scheme. Novel and striking uniforms count toward final judgment in the contest and this has inspired many novelties. The regiment of the Alpine chasseur; flashing steel helmets of drum corps; the sombre green of the marine; make a multi-colored sight attractive to every visitor.

But not least will be decorations of the various department delegations. Minnesota, with its huge "Gopher" plaques; Pennsylvania's Keystone; the sun-flower of Nebraska; the blue overseas caps of Nebraska; the Indian head dress of Oklahomans, and the many colored hats, caps and clothes of other delegates with most unusual novelties will never be forgotten. One southern delegation has promised to come with top-hats and canes, and Iowa would be desolated if the "tall corn" was forgotten in this listing.

What the sons of the Golden West have in mind is somewhat of a secret, but they promise not to be out of the fun when it starts, and may be depended on for the novel.

Realty Broker Sues Another For Share Of Sale Commission

F. A. Rupert, Anaheim real estate broker, was plaintiff today in a superior court action filed here against the Franz Realty company of Anaheim, in which Rupert claims $187.50 is due him as commission upon a real estate transaction that took place in December, 1920.

Rupert alleged that an oral agreement was made with the defendant company by which he was to provide a purchaser for a lot at the corner of Crestnut and Clementine streets, Anaheim, the price of which was $7500. Subsequently, Rupert alleged, he produced a buyer, S. A. Belsert, who paid the stipulated price. Alleging that he was promised a commission of 2 1/2 per cent of the purchase price as commission, which amount he claimed had never been paid, Rupert asked judgment in court for that sum.

Former S. A. Teacher Heads U. S. C. Bureau

Miss Nadine Crump, a teacher in the grade schools of Santa Ana twenty-five years ago, has been appointed superintendent of the department of community service, recently established by the University of Southern California, it became known here today. Miss Crump has been identified with the university for six years.

The new department has been created to take care of growing contacts of the university with clubs, organizations and community interests in the Southern part of the state.

Fails As Utah Cowboy, Youth Ready to Return

Anxious to return to his home in this city, after an unsuccessful attempt to "break into the cowboy business" in Utah, Norris Campbell, 16, son of O. E. Campbell, 115 South Van Ness street, today was awaiting arrival of the necessary transportation to bring him back to Santa Ana. Young Campbell, who disappeared from this city about ten days ago, always wanted to be a cowboy, according to his father, but the glamor wore off after he had faced the hardships of the road. The boy will return to school in this city, his father declared.

Deny Woman Damages For Injuries To Knee

Mrs. Edith Tyrer and her husband, D. M. Tyrer, had failed today in their superior court proceedings here to collect $10,000 damages from Charles Brownwell, owner of an apartment house at Newport Beach.

In a decision late yesterday, Judge R. Y. Williams gave judgment in favor of the defense, denying the claim of Mr. and Mrs. Tyrer, who had demanded the $10,000 on account of injuries to Mrs. Tyrer's knee as she stepped in a hole in the sidewalk beside the apartment house.

It was contended by the defense that the sidewalk was public property and the court upheld Brownwell's position that he was not responsible for the accident.

COMPLETE CAST FOR THRILLER, '13TH CHAIR'

Announcement of the complete cast of "The Thirteenth Chair," Bayard Veiller's thriller, to be produced at the Temple theater here the nights of October 30 to November 2, inclusive, by the Santa Ana Community Players' association, was made today by Ernest Crozier Phillips, director of the Players.

The leading feminine character, that of Mme. La Grange, clairvoyant about whom revolves much of the spirited action of the play, will be portrayed by Mrs. L. E. Beeman, Phillips said.

The leading feminine juvenile lead, Helen O'Neill, will be played by Mrs. Hazel Landers Hummel.

Other characters will be played by the following:

Will Crosby, Clay Minnix; Mrs. Crosby, Mrs. H. H. Reeves; Roscoe Crosby, Eli H. Singer; Edward Wales, E. J. Hummel, Mary Eastwood, Miss Fay Hankin, Helen Trent, Miss Gladys Smith; Bradish Trent, George C. May; Howard Standish, Edwin J. Wright; Phillip Mason, Harry Brackett; Elizabeth Erskine, Mrs. Clay Minnix; Pollock, Donald Fletcher; Tim Donohue, Robert Paine Jr.; and Sergeant Dunn, C. Ferris Spencer.

Phillips stated that the work of whipping the play into shape was proceeding satisfactorily. Rehearsals are held every night except Saturday and Sunday nights, at the Frances Willard junior high school, on North Main street.

TRAIN SAFER THAN HOME SAYS R. R. MAN

OMAHA, Oct. 1.—"He who hesitates at grade crossings is safe," says President Carl R. Gray, of the Union Pacific system in his monthly talk for October. To hesitate means to pause before acting. Failure to do so has caused the deaths of 9,101 persons in the last five years, which Gray reminds his readers is almost twice the number killed in the Battle of Gettysburg.

"Railroading in America," said Gray, "has been so highly developed that serious collisions and derailments are now rare, as compared with thirty or forty years ago. The face value of some accident insurance policies automatically doubles in case of injury in a steam train accident. One is safer, therefore, on a train than at home. On the other hand, why is travel by automobile unsafe? Two reasons are: Except in a few states automobile drivers are not examined before being licensed and in not more than one state out of five does the driver stop and look in either direction at grade crossing."

"Something must be done at once to stop this awful sacrifice of human life."

ANAHEIM TEACHERS HAVE PARK PICNIC

ANAHEIM, Oct. 5.—The teachers in the Anaheim grammar schools will be the guests this afternoon and evening of the grammar school board and Superintendent C. C. Smith at a barbecue and picnic to be held at Orange county park. It has been the custom for several years to welcome the teachers in this way.

Tuesday afternoon, from 3 to 5 o'clock, all of Anaheim's teachers will be the guests of the Parent-Teachers' association at a reception at the high school. The program includes a one-act play to be presented by members of the Community Players. The occasion will afford an opportunity for the parents and teachers to become acquainted.

ANAHEIM GIRL IS SOUGHT BY FATHER

ANAHEIM, Oct. 5.—A county-wide search was started today for Helen Stewart, 15 years old, 146 West Center street, who is believed to have run away from home and is now staying in Santa Ana.

According to the police the girl's father is of the opinion that his daughter is living in Santa Ana with Mrs. Pauline Schubach, who was formerly employed in Anaheim. The girl was seen in Santa Ana Wednesday night and was inquiring for Mrs. Schubach according to the police.

Seeking Successors To Resigning Envoys

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—President Coolidge today is giving his attention to the question of successors to Colonel George Harvey, American ambassador to the court of St. James and Richard Washburn Childs, Ambassador to Rome, who have resigned.

The president may have decided in his own mind to whom he will offer these important posts, but if he has, there so far has been no indication of his choice.

Arrest Suspects In Crooked Card Games

SAN PEDRO, Oct. 5.—Police believed today that they had checked the operations of a ring of professional gamblers operating on coastwise passenger vessels when they arrested Harry Stone, Sam Hampton, and George Ball as they walked down the gang plank of the steamship Ruth Alexander. They were alleged to have swindled fellow passengers out of several hundred dollars in crooked card games.

TRIO TO GIVE MUSIC LOVERS BIG TREAT

The opening event of the Santa Ana Musical association's series of offerings will be a concert at the high school auditorium October 11, by the Los Angeles Trio, consisting of May MacDonald Hope, pianist; Ilya Bronson, cellist; and Calmon Luboviski, violinist. The trio need no comment. It was selected by the University of California to present eight chamber music programs on the first summer concert series held by the university in Los Angeles. Six programs will be given during the coming winter in Los Angeles, played authoritatively in style, and imbued with the spirit of human nobility. Each of the chamber music is the simplest and yet the most refined of all musical arts.

May MacDonald Hope for the past seven years has pioneered unremittently for chamber music, and has selected two of the best of the Southern California musicians as co-artists. Calmon Luboviski is considered one of the foremost violinists of Western America and Bronson is solo cellist with the Philharmonic orchestra of Los Angeles, which fact needs no comment as to his virtuosity.

The vocalist on this occasion will be Alice Forsythe Mosher, who possesses a voice of rare tonal quality and crystalline clearness, and rare personal charm. She is the soloist of the First Presbyterian church, Los Angeles, and has appeared as soloist with the Philharmonic orchestra, as well as traveling organizations. Her higher tones are especially clear and naturally placed so that she sings them with gratifying ease, and the lower register has dramatic force, while her diction is faultless.

Tickets are on sale at the Santa Ana Book store and at the First National, Farmers and Merchants, Pacific Southwest and Orange County Trust and Savings Banks.

Santa Fe Is Preparing California Pamphlets

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5.—Not satisfied with the biggest passenger business for the summer on record, the Santa Fe now is going after and is planning to take care of a veritable deluge of tourist, home-seekers and other travel to California this winter, it was announced at company offices here. The official photographers of the lines have just taken several hundred of the best views of harvest, scenic and other attractions along the Santa Fe throughout California, it was added.

The work is a part of the company's program involving well expenditure of a million dollars for publicity and advertising this year, principally to boost travel, encourage new industries to locate along its lines and, in a general way, help the country to develop and prosper.

Many of the photos taken will be used to embellish the pages of new folders, booklets and other literature to be issued by the Santa Fe during the next few months. In addition some of the views will be printed in "The Earth," the company's development magazine.

Bride Won Through Letter of Inquiry

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—Writing to his former country, Austria, for information on business conditions and securing a bride instead of the data he was after, was the experience of John J. Schilder, who arrived in the city from Southern California with Mrs. Schilder.

Schilder several months ago wrote to an Austrian newspaper for information regarding post-war conditions there. His letter was read by Miss Bertha Kollerich, who advised him that he had better stay in America. A small courtship ensued and the other day she arrived in California. They were married and then came to San Francisco, where the Travelers' Aid society assisted them in finding a home.

NEW MINING BOOM AT GRASS VALLEY

GRASS VALLEY, Oct. 5.—Mining expansion in the Grass Valley district is becoming more and more notable. Several established companies of Nevada, long engaged in silver mining, have come here to engage in gold mining, and it is reported their example is to be followed by additional concerns.

The Ben Hur Divide Company of Tonopah, also operating at Randsburg, has acquired the Ben Franklin group here and is hastening the opening by the use of three shifts daily. The vice-president, Albert Kelly, is in charge. The Ben Franklin is an old location with a good production record.

Other Nevada interests have acquired the West Extension group, located southwest of the city, and extensive development is planned.

At the South Star property, reopening is being prosecuted by Utah and California mining men headed by Shand Smith. Unwatering of the mystery shaft, sealed for 52 years, awaits completion of a power line.

The Alcaide, located in the west end of the district, continues to pour out bonanza. This property is now in the million dollar class and seems to have entered upon a long area of production. In addition to the yield of high grade, a small mill is giving good returns from milling ore.

At the Normandie-Dumaine, of which Mack Sennett is principal owner, the Dumaine ledge has been cut and is showing well under exploration. Comprehensive development is planned.

Other developments in that section are the Osceola, the Alta Combination, the Randolph and several smaller properties.

Comedian In Court Row Against Rival

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5.—Charlie Chaplin's baggy pants, huge shoes and trick derby will be the principal court exhibits here tomorrow when the comedian's injunction suit against Charles Amador, an alleged imitator, will be heard. Chaplin has already held up two of Amador's films by injunction and now seeks to have him restrained from wearing the clothes that "Charlie" made famous.

The justice who was said to have performed the ceremony of the girl and her husband failed to

It was alleged that Calderwood entered the preserves of the Santa Ana Gun club for the purpose of hunting ducks. J. W. Prewett, representative of the gun club, filed the complaint.

County Y.M.C.A. Needs Adequate Camp Site, Secretary Declares

Growth of the Y. M. C. A. in Orange county has brought about an imperative need for an adequate camp site for the associations of the county, according to the report issued today by T. P. McKee, community secretary, of a recent county committee meeting.

H. A. Lake, Garden Grove, and Andrew Moore, Wintersburg, were appointed with two representatives from each district to secure such a site before the next summer camp.

The report followed by the secretaries from Santa Ana, Orange, Anaheim, Fullerton and the county at large, revealed a total of 11,845 persons participating in the enjoying the program of activities throughout the summer months.

"Each of the districts promoted successful indoor baseball leagues, registered forty-two teams. Two hundred forty-seven were played with 569 different players and 14,753 spectators.

Volley Ball Played
"Santa Ana promoted a volleyball league, playing 108 games. McKee planned and promoted the playground work in connection with the Daily Vacation Bible school, where 100 children, daily, were in attendance for five weeks.

"Orange district, through the courtesy of Mr. Wulff of Villa Park, was enabled to promote supervised swimming, with an attendance of 614, twice a week. Fourteen boys were taught to swim. Through the co-operation of the schools, civic clubs and city, the Orange district secured a full-time assistant to help C. E. Morrow, secretary to promote supervised play, using both the school grounds and the 'Y' building. In this way 1342 boys were served.

The Anaheim 'Y' center was a veritable beehive of activity. The report of W. L. Ashleigh, secretary, showed an attendance of 3850 boys and 2695 girls at the plunge, with thirty-two taught to swim. Seventeen different church groups used the center for some kind of social times or meetings, with an attendance of 713. The grounds were used outside of schedule class time by 1586 men and boys.

Annual Camp Promoted.
"The big feature of the summer work was the annual camp at Catalina, with Secretaries Morrow, Ashleigh, McKee and Raitt in charge, with fourteen tent leaders and 104 boys, making a total in camp of 1922.

"Some of the results of camp, as revealed by figures are:

"Eighty-one boys won camp emblems in the four-fold beginners' swimming buttons, thirty-eight won swimmers' buttons, two won teachers' buttons, nine won life-saving medals, fifty boys won steps in the 'Rag' society—the honor society of the California Y. M. C. A. Boys' Camp—thirty decisions for the Christian life were made, thirty-seven forward steps or reconsecrations were taken, nineteen decisions for church membership were made.

"The reports, while revealing the rapid growth of the past few months in the interest of men and boys alike in the Y. M. C. A. work, challenged all present with the needs of the future. A composite of the policies or plans of the different districts indicated the possibility of 114 different groups or clubs, with an enrollment of 1597, during the coming year, not including the numbers that the new Santa Ana building will reach in its plan of membership.

Many Attend Meeting
"With one period only, available at Catalina, the imperative need of securing an adequate campsite for the associations of the county was revealed, and a committee, consisting of H. A. Lake of Garden Grove, Andrew Moore of Wintersburg and two representatives from each district was appointed to secure such a site before next summer."

Those who were present at this meeting were: Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Tedford, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Griset, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cranston, Mrs. McKee, S. M. Davis, Miss Kathleen Owens, Santa Ana; M. E. Beebe, W. J. Sebastian, the Rev. and Mrs. T. H. Walker, W. L. Ashleigh, Anaheim; Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Morrow and Mrs. G. S. Chessum, Orange; Mr. J. G. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Lake, Garden Grove; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Moore, Wintersburg; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Raitt of Fullerton.

Practical Notes on the S. S. Lesson

Prepared for The Register by Cal. Ogburn

Lesson for October 7, Gen. 12:1-14:18, 17; 22: 15-18. ABRAHAM, A BESSING TO THE WORLD.
"Now Jehovah said unto Abram, Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy fathers house, unto the land that I will show thee."—v. 1. We have for the next quarter's lessons a series of studies in "The Missionary Message of the Bible," beginning today with Abraham the first "foreign" missionary, who went to the command of God—when there were "plenty of unconverted people right at home!"

We are told that Terah, Abraham's father, "served other gods."—Josh. 24:2. Then that old excuse for not supporting foreign missions falls flat, because it lacks God's endorsement. To be sure there are "a-plenty" of unconverted people, the vast majority of whom have every opportunity and incentive to turn away from sin. There are fathers today, like Terah, whose godly children should shame them into living a righteous life. But Abraham—or Abram, as he was then called—was a faithful son, and remained with his father till his death. Then the son of this idol-worshipper turned his face towards an unknown land and a strange people. It was to be the land of larger opportunity. Abraham's steadfast faith in God, in the midst of idolatry, was to be, unstintingly rewarded.

Though not by any means at all times above censure in his conduct, evidently Abraham was the best man that could be found through whom God could transmit a knowledge of himself to the world. How strange it is that God should still ever have lacked for competent representatives! And stranger still that in this Christian era it should be so difficult to find men and women enough to most convincingly evidence the superiority of the religion of Jesus Christ. The Master is judged not so much by what he said long ago as by what his servant does now.

It is a long call from what Abraham did as a missionary to that of the best equipped mission station of today. In nothing is the contrast more striking. But Abraham was a pioneer, and those who are "pioneering" are always at a disadvantage. The missionaries of a hundred years ago had but little to show for all their efforts. But if there had been no Abraham probably there never would have been a Paul, a Judson, a Livingstone, a Fiske, a Dr. Grenfell, a Dan Crawford—or a thousand others who have dedicated and devoted their lives to the foreign mission field.

Haran."—v. 4. What a queer little company of people it was who left Haran that day, and on what a mission they were bound! Prominent among them were Abraham and Lot—uncle and nephew—an old man, to whom God had talked, and a young man to whom God would talk, when his backsliding was complete and his cup of iniquity full. This mere handful of people, going they knew not exactly where, to one of whom—God had said,

"In thee shall all the families of the earth be blessed." It was the strangest caravan imaginable—wasn't it? But there was One with them that gave them a majority as against the whole world. When the solitary missionary, in the midst of a heathen community or nation, is considered—and maybe commiserated—God should not be left out of mind. It is too late now to predict the failure of any missionary enterprise, however feeble it may be. Abraham the lone missionary, in a world reeking with idolatry and its attendant wickedness, sowed the seed of righteousness, the full harvest from which is still to be gathered. Disparage not the day of small things in the evangelization of the world.

Abraham, insofar as we have any information, established no mission among the heathen. Certainly he did nothing like what the foreign missionaries of today are doing. Seemingly he was many millenniums behind the present. But his life, illumined by his faith in God, was a lighthouse, casting its friendly beacon near and far. With a few sad exceptions, he preached what he believed by living it. Just so the Christian home in a heathen land is the most convincing evidence of the superiority of the religion of Jesus Christ. The Master is judged not so much by what he said long ago as by what his servant does now.

It is a long call from what Abraham did as a missionary to that of the best equipped mission station of today. In nothing is the contrast more striking. But Abraham was a pioneer, and those who are "pioneering" are always at a disadvantage. The missionaries of a hundred years ago had but little to show for all their efforts. But if there had been no Abraham probably there never would have been a Paul, a Judson, a Livingstone, a Fiske, a Dr. Grenfell, a Dan Crawford—or a thousand others who have dedicated and devoted their lives to the foreign mission field.

SIERRA OFFERS MANY DELIGHTS

NEVADA CITY, Oct. 2.—October in the Sierra is usually one of the most delightful months of the year, and with the initial rains of the season over a long and enjoyable autumn season is anticipated. Tourist parties, however, are advised to carry ample bedding and mechanical equipment wherewith to cope with possible storms.

The volume of tourist traffic reaching here during the present season has broken all records and is regarded as a foretaste of what may be expected in future years. In appreciation of this traffic the city has paved nearly a mile of street connecting with the highway on the south and maintains a free camp ground and all modern accommodations. The forty miles of state highway leading from here to Downieville, built by state's prison honor men, is a big attraction and this route, leading as it does through the Yuba Pass and into the Sierra valley, carries a large volume of transmountain traffic.

At this time the present county road through the Yuba Pass is under survey by the government and next year it will be rebuilt by the use of national forest funds.

Suit to Quiet Title Placed On File Here

Suit to quiet title to property near Placencia was on file today in the superior court here, with A. H. Bradford and W. M. Bradford as plaintiffs. The defendants were Charles A. Johnson, Ora M. Stokes, Elizabeth Fowler and Grace Kruse.

SUNDAY AS FAIR DATE OMITTED; PASTORS AID

Revealing a spirit of co-operation between the churches and executives of the Southern California fair at Riverside, a statement was received here today from the Rev. Richard E. Day, pastor of the First Baptist church of that city. The statement follows in part:

"The Southern California fair will open its gates for the annual exhibit in Riverside, October 9, and will continue until Saturday evening, October 13. You will note by these dates that Sunday is to be a 'closed day'. This unusual departure from the customary practice of fair management is due to a fine spirit of deference shown by the directors of the Southern California fair. Though they feared that a Sunday closing would cut off a very large sum from the gate receipts, yet they also felt that the time for a new departure in this direction had come.

"Churchmen of Riverside have met this remarkable concession with an equal display of good will. A large Bible school parade has been arranged for Tuesday, October 9, in which beautiful floats will be displayed, showing the meaning and power of religious education in the modern community. The churches of Riverside also have taken an unusual step, not officially as churches, but through private arrangement.

"Feeling that much depends upon the unqualified success of a 'Sundayless' fair, they—the churches—have private committees at work selling hundreds of tickets upon the streets of Riverside. For once, at least, we are to have a fair that is clean in its program parts, and which omits the offense of a wide open Sunday.

"This fair must succeed. If it does, it will profoundly influence similar exhibits of the entire Pacific coast and, consequently, of the entire United States. I, therefore, made so bold as to ask for the enthusiastic support of the citizens of Santa Ana, and Orange county. Tickets have been put on sale by your local Chamber of Commerce office. Help us register a new moral advance in this rapidly-growing Pacific coast by making this 'new departure fair,' an unqualified success."

LAST OF NOTED MORMON TRAIN DEAD AT 92

SHINGLE SPRINGS, Oct. 2.—Thomas Orr, who died here at the age of 92 years, was the only known living survivor of Brigham Young's train of 700 wagons which made the trip from Winter Quarters, now Omaha, Neb., to Salt Lake in 1847. He remembered playing baseball when a boy with Joseph Smith, head of the Mormon church.

Orr's father at one time owned a tract of land which is now the site of Chicago. His father purchased the plot from the government, but was disappointed when he saw it and traded it back for other property. The family was the first to build a cabin on the present site of Omaha.

After the trip across the plains, the Orr family settled for a time in Salt Lake City, but in the spring of 1850 decided to continue to California. Thirty-five families joined the caravan and Orr's father was captain.

After many hardships, they reached the Carson river and camped west of where Virginia City now lies. Here they panned for gold and found small quantities, but pushed on to Genoa, near Lake Tahoe, where they stopped for three weeks.

Orr's brother, John, panned out the first nugget found on that side of the mountains.

Started Old Road
Finally they reached Pleasant Valley near here, arriving there on the fourth of July, 1851. They decided to settle in this section. Orr's father bought two quarter sections at Salmon Falls and started the road from the old emigrant trail to Green Springs on the Coloma road.

Orr and his father for many years ran a hotel at Salmon Falls. At one time they owned the controlling interest in the Natomas ditch.

For twenty years Orr had resided in a two-story frame building at Shingle Springs, formerly used as a winery, but converted into a rooming house under Orr's personal management.

Non-Support Charged By Rancher's Spouse

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—Although Patrick Kearney is owner of "Kearney ranch," near Boyes Springs, a property valued at $60,000, Mrs. Anna Kearney, in an action for divorce instituted in the superior court, alleges that for five years her husband has failed to support her and she has been life herself. In addition to the forced to earn the necessities of ranch property, Mrs. Kearney asserts her husband earns $5 daily for his services as a farmhand on nearby properties.

Thief Runs Into Arms of Officers

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 2.—Julian Hernandez, a Mexican, claims luck is breaking against him. As he was making his getaway from the China Toggery, a store at 710 K street, with an armful of merchandise, he ran right into Patrolmen F. M. Winters and Jack McCarthy. He will be charged with robbery.

Cooking Meat Burns, Neighbors In Alarm Call S. A. Firemen

A neglected roast brought out the fire department late yesterday. Mrs. A. W. Scheets, 1101 West Fifth street, put the roast in the oven, then went to call on a neighbor. Later good housewives in the vicinity catching the odor of burning turned in a fire alarm. Fire Chief John Luxembourg said no damage was done, except that a perfectly good roast was clundered.

GAS SUBSTITUTE SUCCESS ONLY IN MINOR WAY

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5.—Experiments in the operation of internal-combustion engines with motor benzol, conducted by the department of the interior at the experiment station of the bureau of mines at Pittsburgh, indicate that this type of fuel may serve as a satisfactory gasoline substitute, when refined by the use of sulphuric acid or silica gel.

The same tests developed the fact that crude motor benzol cannot be used satisfactorily until after the removal of certain compounds which form gummy deposits and eventually stop the engine. No engine trouble whatever developed when acid-refined or silica gel-refined motor benzol fuel was used.

It is estimated that 6,202,235,000 gallons of gasoline was produced during the year 1922. The crude light oil output during the same year is estimated at 111,000,000 gallons, or 1.8 per cent of the gasoline production. If all the coal mined were cooked in by-product ovens, and the light oil recovered therefrom, this product would amount to only 15 to 20 per cent of the quantity of the petroleum gasoline now produced annually. It is obvious therefore, that the light oils by present coking processes can not assume great importance as a gasoline substitute. However, the use of light oil as a motor fuel is of real importance in districts adjacent to by-product coking operations from which a reasonable proportion of the local motor fuel supply is derived. The certainty of diminution of petroleum resources in the relatively near future demands the utmost utilization of gasoline substitutes from the distillation of coal as well as other sources.

See and St. Paul railroad in that city, has been visiting his godfather, Mr. Robert Evans.

He left Monday for his home, going by way of Seattle. Coming from an artist family, he was much interested in Laguna and its artists and regretted that he could not spend more time visiting the studios.

Several Lagunans are vacationing after a busy summer season. Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Peacock and their two children have been at Coronado for a week.

Mr. Joe Skidmore has been away for a few days; Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Isch and Miss Josephine Yoch have returned from Warner's Hot Springs.

Miss Borghild Leren, of the Skidmore office force, is away on her vacation.

Miss Hedwig Boymann, proprietress of the "Variety Shoppe" on Forest avenue, has gone to Prescott, Arizona for some weeks.

Mrs. Kenneth Brown has charge of the shop in Miss Boymann's absence.

Dr. Rachel M. Gatzlaf has bought Miss Mary Watrous' studio home, near the little white Catholic church, and will use the studio proper, a small detached building, as an office and rent the cottage.

Mrs. Ella Hotelling Tanberg and Mrs. Lillian Ferguson spent Tuesday painting in Orange county park, and reports the park very "paintable" just now, in its autumn dress of brown.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Smith, Master James and Miss Janet, motored up to San Juan Hot Springs Sunday and say that the road is in very good condition; better in fact, Mr. Smith says, than the highway to Arch Beach from Laguna.

Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Kingman and Mr. and Mrs. Clayborn Saint arrived in Laguna Tuesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Saint left Hotel Del Monte Monday morning early and reached their home in Los Angeles that evening. Evidently they did not encounter anyone resembling Judge Cox, en route!

Mr. and Mrs. Kingman will be at their cottage for two weeks or longer; Mr. Kingman always makes it a point to be here at the opening of the lobster season, on the fifteenth of this month. The Saints will go back to Los Angeles Sunday.

Miss Julia Raymond, one of Laguna's artists who has been wandering about the east for several months, will soon be home at her Arch Beach Studio. She has been painting in the Adirondacks recently and will return by way of San Bernardino, San Jose and Santa Barbara, arriving in Laguna about the middle of this month.

James Sanborn Murphy will teach voice culture in Santa Ana this coming season. He has taken on office in the Greenleaf building and will receive pupils there every Tuesday.

Conway Griffith is back from a week in Los Angeles, where he attended all the current motion picture productions, "The Covered Wagon," Pola Negri's latest and several others. He is very enthusiastic over the acting of "Sharley's" late fiancée, calling her another Bernhard. Recent visitors to Mr. Griffith's studio are: Nat Carville, C. E., of Fullerton, Louis A. Pratt, Monrovia, Mrs. Anna Gage, Ella B. Graham and William Brown of Los Angeles. Mrs. Reba L. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Cora Desly Waters and J. B. Fitzpatrick of Fullerton.

At the Laguna Hotel are registered Richard and Hale Willis, Hollywood, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Butterfield, Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Townsend, Mrs. A. J. Best, Mr. Logan and family, Mr. and Mrs. McPhoeckin, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Jordan and Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Walker, all of Los Angeles, E. E. Spiker of Alhambra and O. L. Yarbrough, from Spokane, Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Moulton have gone back to Los Angeles, after spending two weeks at the Moulton cottage on Riverside Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Richards and a small grandchild are down for a while at their cottage, next to the Moultons.

Mr. and Mrs. Tuthill of Santa Ana are spending much time at their newly acquired cottage, the former Street house.

They have made the house over and are now improving the interior.

Anxious to finish their labors in order that they may be prepared to deliver final reports to Mrs. A. J. Crookshank, president, at a meeting scheduled for tomorrow, forty active workers soliciting funds for the Ebell club building fund, today were making last-minute calls upon members of the club and urging them to support the drive.

According to the members of the teams now in the field the response of the clubwomen has been all that could be desired. Final reports covering the week's activities will be made to Mrs. Crookshank at the home of Mrs. O. M. Robbins, 930 Lacy street, tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock.

DELAY FAIR FIGURES UNTIL NOVEMBER 1

Following a preliminary report delivered by the directors of the 1923 Orange county fair at a meeting of the directors of the fair bureau, held here yesterday, A. M. Stanley, manager of the fair bureau, announced today that final reports and resignations of the members of the fair board will be received by the bureau Thursday, November 1.

"Aside from declaring their belief that the 1923 fair was a success," said Stanley, "the fair directors made no attempt to deliver a comprehensive report. It was felt that all bills should be audited and other routine matters cleared up before a final report is made. This will require fully a month."

Total receipts were said to be in excess of $27,000.

EXPECT JONES, NEHF TO DECIDE SERIES

"Sad Sam" or Hoyt to Open For Yanks If Day Clear, Bush If Cloudy

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Sam Jones for Yanks and Art Nehf for the Giants will most likely do the pitching for the world's series.

Differing with Manager John McGraw on practically all his policies, Miller Huggins, manager of the Yanks, is willing to discuss his plans for the series more or less in detail.

"Jones or Hoyt will pitch the first game if the conditions are right but if it is a dark, heavy day, I will start Joe Bush," Huggins said. "They are all ready."

McGraw politely insisted that he does not know what Giant pitcher will be sent after the first game. "I may not know until I have made a decision just before the game," he said.

Nehf Probable Starter
Nehf has been looking so good lately and he is such a good pitcher that McGraw no doubt will send him in to start the series unless one of the other pitchers insists that he is "over right."

Jones is considered the ace of the American league champions, as he has had a fine year. His teammates figure that he ought to be good for two games in the series.

Disregarding the fact that Jones is one of the best pitchers in the American league, the Giants are not timid about him. Jones is a curve ball pitcher and the National league champions figure that because they had such an easy time all season with Johnny Morrison, the curve ball star of the Pirates, they will get to Jones.

The Giants are considering Herb Pennock, the southpaw of the Yanks, with more seriousness than any of the other Yank pitchers they will have to face.

Ruth on First Base
Wally Pipp insists that his bad ankle will mend before Wednesday and that he will be able to play first for the Yanks. Huggins, however, admits that he entertains small hope of having Pipp in the game and that he is studying his plans to play Babe Ruth at first base. The Babe is now working out on the bag.

Huggins considers that the teams have equal chances to win the series. "The Giants can do some things better than we can," said Huggins. "and we can do some things better than the Giants. It looks to me like an even bet," he said.

McGraw also expressed the opinion that chances are about even as far as paper form is concerned. Most of the fans figure like Connie Mack that the "breaks" in a short series are all important.

Disability of Ruth, Meusel, Pipp and McNally has caused a reduction in the odds on the Yanks. Betting today kept the Yanks a favorite but the odds were 11 to 10 instead of 6 to 5.

LEGION WINS FIRST INDOOR BALL GAME

Fight Results

NEW YORK—David Rosenberg, New York middleweight, knocked out Soldier Bartfield, veteran New Yorker in the fourth round. Bartfield announced his retirement after the fight.

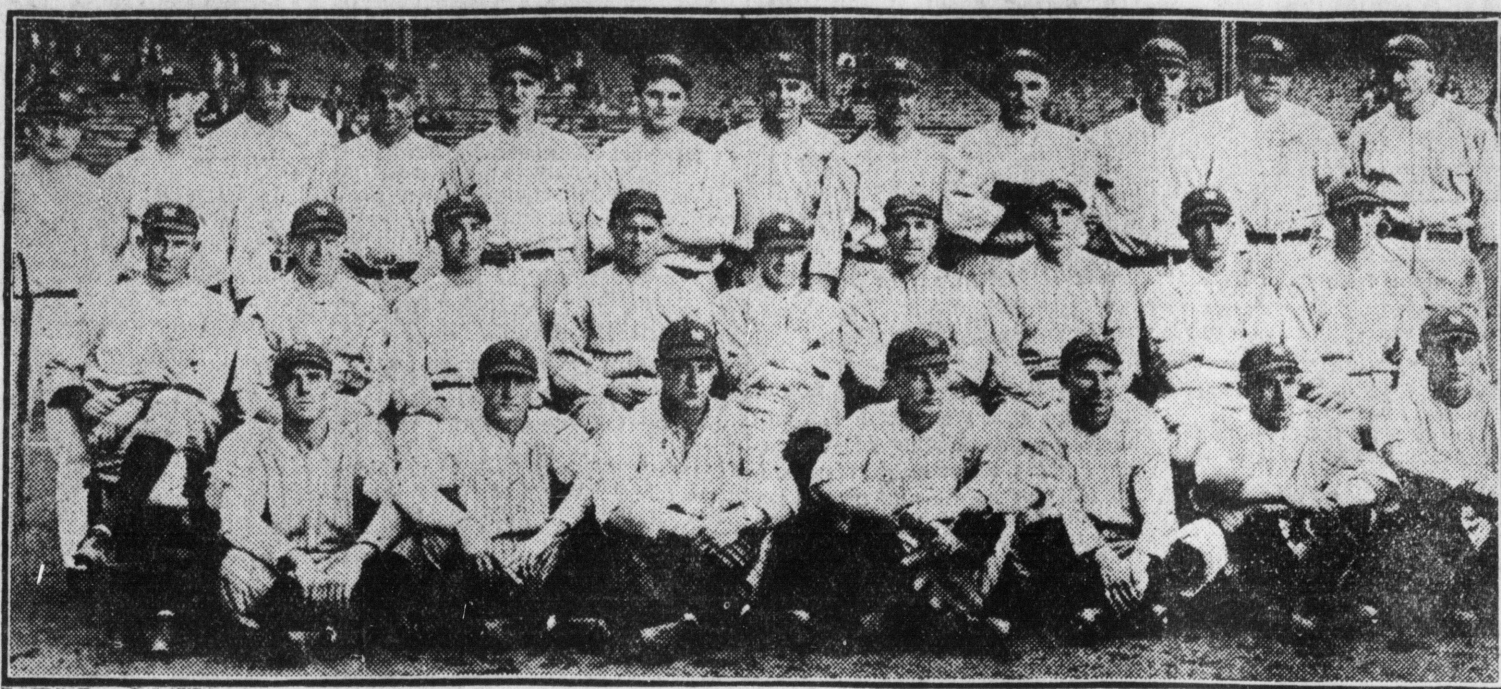

NEW YORK—Bartley Madden, heavyweight, won a ten round decision from Jack McAuliffe II, Detroit. The decision was not popular.

LONDON—Ted "Kid" Lewis, British middleweight, won a 20 round decision from Frankie Burns, Australia.

Pittsburgh—Harry Greb, world's middleweight, won a ten round newspaper decision over Jimmy Darcy of Portland. Greb was given nine rounds.

Walnut Shaking Polles. Hawleys,

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

Comparing the infields of the Yankees and the Giants it will be found that the National league champions have an edge in the power of their attack, while the two combinations are about evenly matched on the defense.

Wally Pipp, first baseman of the Yankees, is a real star, whose value to the club is not superficially apparent. Pipp is regarded by many first class pitchers as the most dangerous batter on the team. He is a hard worker, a good reliable fielder and a player of ideal temperament.

Kelly, the rival first stacker of the Giants, has only one marked superiority over Pipp, and that consists in his possession of one of the finest arms in baseball. On double plays, relaying from the outfield, his whip is a most valuable asset to the team. Kelly ought to be a great hitter, but he fell off greatly this year and was shoved way down the lineup. In fielding and in covering foul territory he is perhaps as good, but no better than Pipp.

The hitting power of Pipp gives the Yankees a slight edge on first base.

Two of the best second basemen in the major leagues are to be found on the opposing clubs.

Because of his ability as a hitter and a base runner, Frankie Fitch will be favored over Erin Ward.

Ward was one of the most improved ball players of the past season. He always had the potential ability to star, but it took him some time to figure out second base after he had been started at third.

In fielding, Frisch and Ward are spectacular and brilliant. Frisch is better in getting back into short rightfield but he doesn't handle the ball as cleanly as Ward and his value on double plays is thereby reduced. Frisch hits better, gets on base oftener than Ward and he is one of the most daring base runners in baseball. In tight games his ability on the bases will make him of more value to the club than Ward.

The advantage, slight it may be, rests with the Giants at second base.

Dave Bancroft, captain and shortstop of the present world's champions, is the spark plug of the whole team. He is erratic at times and he falls frequently into errors at the most critical times, but he has assets that overcome that weakness.

Bancroft is the brainiest shortstop in the game and he carries the load of directing the team on the field. He is a fighting, aggressive player and a steady influence upon the whole team, especially upon the pitchers.

Everett Scott was once a great shortstop, but he has slowed up terribly. He cannot cover territory with Bancroft and he cannot throw like the Giant captain. On the middle of a double play, Bancroft has a marked advantage over him.

Scott is more reliable and more steady than Bancroft, but drives will get past him that will never pass the Giant star. Bancroft is a more reliable batter and a faster man on the bases.

Like Scott, Heinie Groh, the Giant third baseman, is another player who has passed the day of his greatness. Groh once was the best of all the third basemen, but his legs have gone bad on him and third base is no place for a player with bad legs.

Joe Dugan is the best third baseman in baseball, one of the best of them all. He hasn't the batting average of Groh, but the hitting of the Giant third baseman is not so sensational as to make that a marked difference.

REGISTER'S ELECTRIC SCOREBOARD TO PLAY WORLD SERIES FOR SANTA ANAS

Complete Play-By-Play Account of Each Game Of Title Fight To Be Shown; Orange County Public Invited

The Register's big electric scoreboard will this year again give Santa Ana and Orange county baseball fans a complete, play-by-play account of each and every game in the 1923 world series which begins next Wednesday with the New York Yanks and the New York Giants as contesting teams.

Workmen tomorrow will place the board in position on the Third street side of The Register building.

Last year more than 1500 persons watched the big board depict every minute detail of the struggle for the baseball supremacy. A daily average of more than 2000 persons is expected to witness the "Santa Ana world series" this year.

New York's hour of daylight saving was lifted October 1, so each game will begin at about 11 a. m., Santa Ana time.

As soon as the first ball is struck across the plate in New York The Register's board will get in action, showing fans here just what happens to every ball that is thrown.

Baseball fans are invited to come early and stay late. There will be no charge of any kind. The baseball fans of the county once again will be guests throughout the entire series of The Register.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL BEGINS TOMORROW

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—Football actually gets under way on the Pacific coast tomorrow.

"Many of the more powerful elevens will play their first games, and others will take on better opponents than they did last Saturday."

Idaho, regarded as a contestant for coast honors this year, opens against Idaho College at Moscow, Nevada, meets Stanford at Palo Alto, Utah, opens against Whitman at Walla Walla and Gonzaga meets the Butte school of Mines at Butte, Mont.

U. S. C. Faces Pomona College
California which beat St. Mary's last Saturday, is conceded an easy victory over Santa Clara, a slightly better team than St. Mary's.

Washington plays Willamette University which lost to Oregon last Saturday, at Seattle. The Oregon Aggies play their alumni team at Corvallis. Washington State opens with Pacific at Pullman. St. Mary's plays the Mare Island sailors at Oakland.

SCHOOL BOY WINS, LOSES RING TITLE

Referee's Decision Given 3 Hours After Match Gives M'Tigue Draw

COLUMBUS, Ga., Oct. 5.—Young Stribling, an 18 year old high school boy who went to bed last night the light heavyweight champion of the world, today was only a contender for the crown.

Referee Harry Ertle restored the championship to Mike M'Tigue of Ireland last night in a written decision in which he declared his first verdict, when he declared the fight a draw, was his final opinion. He declared he had been faced by a threatening crowd but the promoters of the fight lifted Young Stribling's arm, denoting him the conqueror after Ertle had called the fight a draw at the end of ten rounds.

Ertle's statement declaring the fight a draw, which will be filed with the New York Boxing commission, said Major John Paul Jones, promoter for the American Legion post, was the first to insist that the Macon school boy be declared a winner. Ertle said Jones told him he would never leave the ring alive unless he changed his verdict from draw.

"Jones raised Stribling's hand while I had a hold of it," Ertle said.

McTigue issued a statement declaring he had been forced to fight yesterday by the howling mob, although suffering from an imperfectly healed fracture of a bone in his left thumb.

Although the schoolboy, who for three hours, held the world's title in his hands—a feat that had been the unanswered dream of every other school boy—had no comment to make on the change in his fortune, his claims were backed by a dozen newspapermen and fans who saw the youth pummel McTigue for eight of the ten rounds.

Carrying the fight from the first going, the strapping who has risen in three years to ring fame, had the champion on the ropes and clinching most of the way. A powerful right early in the milling brought a stream of blood from McTigue's nose and left the title holder dazed and on the defensive.

The fight followed a hectic day, during which crowds massed about McTigue's hotel, calling him "yellow" because of his unwillingness to fight with his sore thumb but the police held the crowd in check while a hasty conference of physicians and lawyers convinced the Irishman his injury was not serious.

American Horse Is 2 to 1 Favorite In Early Race Betting

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Early betting has established the American 3 year old better than a 2 to 1 favorite to beat Papyrus, the British horse in the $100,000 international race on Oct. 20.

Some bets are being offered with the provision that Zev, the Ranocas colt, is selected by the Jockey Club committee to carry the American colors but unbacked opinion favors either Zev or My Own, the Grayson 3 year old, to beat the English derby winner.

HOPE RANGER walked down the hall to her mother's sitting room.

The moment she had passed inside and closed the door behind her, a man servant stepped out of the automatic lift a little further along the corridor and followed her noiselessly. He had some letters on a tray, but it apparently was not his intention to deliver them at once. Instead, he paused close to the sitting-room door, his head inclined, listening.

As Hope entered, her mother looked up with a smile from some notes she was writing.

"Going out, darling?" she asked.

"I'm to meet Lucia at the Plaza," Hope explained. "Her mother will be there with some people, but we shan't bother with them. After luncheon, they are going on to a matinee—that is, Lucia and her mother—but it's 'Phlander,' and I've seen it three times, you know, so I begged off. I'll pick up some vials and a few things I need, then home."

The man outside had his ear against the door now, unwilling to miss a word of the conversation; but at the same time his eyes were watching alertly along the hall and down the staircase.

"I don't know, though," Hope reconsidered, "but I'd better drop into Silcott's and hurry him up with those fittings. If by any miracle he is ready, I could telephone you to come down. Or, better still, come to luncheon with us, and then go there with me. Do, mother," she urged.

"No; I'll not tag. You and Lucia will enjoy yourselves more alone. Besides, I've no end of things to look after. Are you driving down, dear?"

"I need the walk," Hope shrugged lightly. "My skin is crying for air and exercise." She scrutinized her reflection in a dim mirror with a quaint, tarnished gilt frame.

Everything in this intimate room of Mrs. Ranger's was old and faintly tarnished. In her day she had been a beauty, Southern as her name, Mary Louise Beauchamp Carter—poor as poverty with generations of wealth behind her—born to a leaking family roof-tree, old family silver, old family pictures, old family servants, the latter dwindled in number until none remained.

Her mother had planned her last hope, Mary Lou; but before the rash girl was 20 she had lost her head over a rising young nobody at all, Loring Ranger, with less background than a chipmunk and no particularly substantial foreground, and had recklessly married him. Mrs. Carter shed tears steadily, and only absented them for a few seconds when she realized the genius of her son-in-law for making money hand over hand—lucky hands that turned everything they touched into gold. Then, completely reconciled, she gave them her blessing, bestowed upon them the family heirlooms and departed this life in peace.

Hope turned from her and in the inspection of herself in the glass. Mischievously she ruffled her mother's sleek head cuffed her affectionately first on one ear and then on the other, and, bending down, kissed her cheek.

"Goodbye," she said.

"Oh, wait a moment!" Mrs. Ranger caught her hand. "I forgot to tell you, your father won't be home this evening. He's having some out-of-town men at the club. Why shouldn't you and I do a play?"

"No reason on earth," Hope nodded. "Choose something neither of us has seen. A slushy, weepy one—the kind you like."

She had reached the door when her mother stopped her again. "You'll telephone from Silcott's, you say, if he's ready for your fittings? That will be about three o'clock, I suppose?"

"Or even earlier."

The man servant was at the head of the stairs with his tray of letters as Hope came out.

"Anything for me, Fitch?"

"No, Miss Ranger; they're all for Mrs. Ranger."

Hope ran down the stairs. A moment later she was walking through the cross-street on which they lived, and at the corner she turned down Fifth Avenue.

She walked on down the Avenue, and crossing over at Fifty-ninth Street, arrived at the Plaza just as her friend, Lucia Thorne, and the latter's mother alighted from a limousine which had drawn up before the entrance.

Meanwhile, the man who had been listening at the keyhole stole furtively out of the house by an area door and made his way to a telephone station in the back of a nearby store.

CHAPTER II
A WESTERN manufacturer, one of Loring Ranger's two guests at dinner that evening, was just reaching the point of a story which had been interrupted by frequent bursts of laughter when the club hallway approached the table and informed Mr. Ranger that he was wanted on the telephone. Ranger laid down the cigar he had lighted. He made his way through the dining-room, a big, good-looking, dominant man, and into a telephone booth.

"Loring!" His wife's voice came quaveringly over the wire. "Oh, I am so glad to get you. I'm terribly worried. Hope went out this morning and hasn't come back yet. And it is nine o'clock."

"Where did she go?" he asked.

"To have luncheon with Lucia Thorne. Then she expected to do an errand or two and come home." Ranger laughed easily.

"She's gone on some party with Lucia. Probably she telephoned, and they've neglected to give you the message."

"No," Mrs. Ranger's tone was positive. "I've questioned all of the servants. Then I called up the Thornes. Mrs. Thorne says that Hope left them a few minutes after two, telling them just what she told me, about attending to her errands and then coming home. She and I were going to a play this evening."

"Now, now, Mary Lou," he spoke

SAYS COLLEGE MAN RISKED LIFE IN SEA VOYAGES

Settled down into the quiet routine of junior college life and knowing only in retrospect the stirring episodes of life in foreign waters as third mate on the S. S. Livingston, Dana U. Lamb, son of County Tax Collector and Mrs. J. C. Lamb, is able to tell his schoolmates many strange tales of his life at sea.

The young man sailed from San Pedro some four months ago, shipping first as an able seaman and rapidly working his way forward, due to his ability to handle men, until he reached the unusual position for so youthful a mariner of third mate.

Tribute Paid
A splendid tribute to the youthful Santa Anna was expressed by his commanding officer, Captain W. L. Livingston, who declared that Lamb had made a record that he might well be proud of and that he had many times risked his life for his shipmates, and by courage and expert seamanship had averted many disasters at sea.

In commenting upon Lamb's decision to abandon the sea, at least for the time being, and return to school, Captain Livingston stated:

"Many seasoned old seamen were hoping that he would return to the ship and share the hardships and pleasures of the voyage with them. Personally, I can say he is everything that a good seafaring man should be—an expert seaman, a loyal officer and right handy with his fists. In losing him, we lost the best man we ever had."

Quoted Poem
Captain Livingston concluded his letter by quoting the familiar sea poem which is a favorite of young Lamb's and which was learned from him, as follows:

From an office cell I saw you.
Tossing slowly down the sound,
Your filthy blazes laden
With a cargo outward bound.

And I marked the day you claimed me
When I sweated in your waist.
I've munched your wormy biscuit
With a curse between each taste.

Too, I mark the kicks and cuffsings
At the Dutchman's horny hands
As the hissing seas we battled
Off the shores of distant lands.

I've cursed you and reviled you—
You and all your brutal kin
And I'd have given every dollar
To be free of you again.

Now I'm educated, risen,
And my hands are soft and white;
In the day I drive at figures,
But when comes a city's night

Then I see the blowsy reaches
Of the tireless tossing sea,
And I feel the trade wind calling
As it once called to me.

In my dreams I hear the bold song
And I skip the sky's yard
With the vivid thrill of knowing
That grim death might play his card.

Yes, I've cursed you and reviled you,
But my thoughts have changed since then;
I'd give my bottom dollar
Just to tread your decks again!

I'm tired of men and cities,
And I think they're tired of me.
My eyes cry out for surcease
From the faces that they see.

Men with pallid faces and servile,
Men with small ambitions—vain!
And the ceaseless tide of women
With their faces marked with pain!

That's why my hands are itching
For the bite of icy tacks,
For the rough and tumble fighting
And the sheets that break men's backs.

You're a rolling rotten hooker,
And your peaks a vermin pen—
And I'd give my bottom dollar
Just to tread your decks again!

CARLYLE BLACKWELL FILM AT NEW PRINCESS
"I like exercise," stated Carlyle Blackwell, star of "Bulldog Drummond," in an interview the other day, "and, believe me, I got it too in my latest production."

It is understood that this exciting tale of a young demobilized army officer who craves excitement as much as to demand plenty of exercising activities on the part of various members of the cast, Carlyle Blackwell, who plays the role of Captain Hugh Drummond, is forced in this production to climb up the side of a house, over roofs and battle against overwhelming odds before the final climax of the picture has been reached.

The producers claim that this picture offers one of the most realistic fight scenes ever presented before the motion picture camera. There is not a moment wherein Blackwell is not forced to exercise his physical prowess in more ways than one.

"Bulldog Drummond" will be shown at the New Princess tonight and Saturday.

Renewed Attention To Gravel Mining In Upper Nevada County
NEVADA CITY, Cal., Oct. 5.—Revival of gravel mining on a large scale seems imminent throughout the upper part of Nevada county. This is coming about both by variations of the drifting process and by hydraulic mining.

Several relatively small hydraulic projects are being inaugurated with the approval of the California Debris Commission, while the $2,000,000 development along the Yuba river holds amazing possibilities. The first unit of the project—the Bullard's Bar debris and power dam—is to be completed by the end of the year.

At North Bloomfield the Malakoff Leasing company has pierced a large body of gravel running above $36 per cubic yard. To mine it efficiently it has been decided to sink the incline shaft an additional 75 feet and this is now being done.

The Gold Lead in the same region, is also in pay gravel, and the production period seems close at hand.

FIRE DEPT. ELECTIONS.

AUTHOR'S DAUGHTER AIDS FILM DIRECTION

Jeanette Helen Porter, the charming and attractive daughter of Gene Stratton Porter, the famous author of many novels and nature books including "Michael O'Halloran," "The Girl of the Limberlost," "Liddle," "The Harvester," "Her Father's Daughter," etc., has deserted the social life for a career in moving pictures.

She has chosen a unique angle of the industry being the only woman assistant director in the business.

Miss Porter was the assistant director of her mother's personally supervised production of her novel, "Michael O'Halloran," which has just been completed at the Ince studio, and which will be shown at the Yost theater tonight and tomorrow.

ANAHEIM M. AND M. IS CHAMBER BRANCH

ANAHEIM, Oct. 5.—By unanimous vote, the directors of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce, in session yesterday afternoon at the Elks' clubhouse, approved the combined report of committees from that organization and the Anaheim Merchants' and Manufacturers' association, which provides for the disbandment of the latter association as a separate organization and consolidates it with the chamber of commerce as a branch.

The report, as read to the directors, provides that the Merchants and Manufacturers' association shall cease to function as a separate organization immediately and that no further dues shall be paid into its treasury.

It also provides that, to be a member of the Merchant and Manufacturers' branch of the chamber of commerce, the man or woman must be a member of the latter organization as provided by its constitution.

Under the new plan the secretary of the chamber of commerce shall be secretary of the merchants' branch, shall attend its regular monthly meetings and handle its records and correspondence. A member of this branch shall be a special director of the larger organization, the committee report says. Since Roscoe Young is president of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' association and also a director of the chamber of commerce, it is thought that the merger may be effected without the appointment of an additional director.

The merger of the two organizations was suggested to do away with duplication of work and to secure a greater efficiency in conducting affairs which ordinarily come under the jurisdiction of such civic bodies.

News from Orange County

FIFTY PINTS OF MILK SERVED TO PUPILS

TUSTIN, Oct. 5.—One hundred half pint bottles of milk are served to the children of the primary grades of the Tustin grammar school at the fifteen minute recesses every morning.

Nurse Takes Weights
The county school nurse was at the grammar school last week and took the weight and measure of each child in the lower grades. A monthly report is to be kept by the teachers and the progress of the students under a diet of milk during the morning period will be observed with interest and care.

The serving of the milk came as the result of a recent Parent-Teachers' association meeting, in which it was brought to light that a number of the children brought money to school with them and spent it at the local stores for candy and other sweet stuffs which were not conducive to the health of growing children.

The teachers and the parents decided to try the plan of serving milk to the children at the recess.

The children, according to the report take to the idea as readily as did the teachers and parents. The milk is served to them in the bottles, a hole being punched in the top of the lid and the milk taken through a straw. Up to the present time the teachers and parents in charge of the serving have not found that any of the children dislike milk.

Parents Interested
Many of the parents have interested themselves in the matter and come to the school in the mornings to help the teachers in the serving. Some of the students have started to bring their own milk from home. Whether this is so that they may have more of the fluid and so grow faster or not it is unable to ascertain.

Special rates are secured from the dairy furnishing the milk and it is expected that the parents will be willing to pay $1.00 per month instead of giving the child several times that amount to spend on things which would not do him as much good. Other schools and health officials in the county are looking on the experiment with interest.

As far as is known, Tustin is the only school in which this practice is being carried on.

The records of the children which will be kept will be submitted to the parents if it is found that the child is over ten per cent under weight. A special investigation conducted last year by members of the school faculty showed that a number of the students of the lower grades were underweight and it is hoped that the present plan of serving the milk will tend to lessen this condition.

Miss Royce, art teacher at the grammar school, who has been staying in Santa Ana, is now living at the Beswick home in Tustin.

Miss Ruth Taylor, kindergarten teacher, spent the week-end visiting with her parents in Long Beach.

Mrs. F. E. Beltz, who has been ill for some time, is now on the road to recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brown spent Monday in Los Angeles on business. Mrs. Brown remained in Los Angeles to visit with friends there and returned Tuesday.

COSTA MESA

COSTA MESA, Oct. 5.—Mr. and Mrs. William Parlow and son, Joe, of El Segundo, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Mark Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Eastman.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Derby of Santa Ana spent Tuesday in Costa Mesa with Mrs. J. R. King.

A good musical program was rendered by the choir at the church last Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jones, who have been making their home with Mr. Jones' sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Pateron, have moved to their new home at Sixteenth and Tustin avenue where they are now entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thorn of Manitoba, Canada, who expect to spend the winter in California. Mr. and Mrs. Thorn have had a pleasant trip en route from Canada visiting many cities, among them being St. Paul, Minn., where they visited relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Bertrom Ellis and daughter, Bernice, have gone for a seven-day trip to Ventura.

F. H. St. Clair and brother, William St. Clair, of Balboa, are out on a seven-day duck hunt.

The Parent-Teacher association is making preparations for an open house to be given at the new $75,000 school house soon. Every room will be open for inspection. It is hoped the gas will be in by that time, as that is all that is lacking for the comfort of those attending the school.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lemmer of Beaumont regret to learn that just as they were starting on their way to move with their household goods their new machine, which was pulling a large trailer, took fire and was completely destroyed, which delayed their coming here for a few days. No one was hurt during the accident. Mrs. Lemmer is a sister to William Ellison.

Mail Carrier Again Hurt In Accident; His Wife Is Unhurt

TUSTIN, Oct. 5.—E. W. Crawford, local mail carrier, is playing in hard luck. Not long ago he injured his right ankle while cranking a car for a woman. Since that time he has been going about on crutches.

Last night about 5:10 o'clock fate again seemingly played her hand in the form of a Buick touring car driven by Fred Witte of Garden Grove, which struck Mr. Crawford's car while he was on his way to Santa Ana with the mail.

The accident occurred on the corner of Fourth and Maybury streets. The Buick car is said to have been approaching the intersection at a high rate of speed. The car hit Crawford when he was on the left-hand side of the street. The Crawford car was thrown around and faced toward Tustin, while the Buick turned completely over. Both cars were badly wrecked.

Mr. Witte crawled from beneath his car uninjured. Mr. Crawford was badly bruised and scratched about the face and body by the car. The other car which struck him as the car turned turtle. It is thought that he also received several broken ribs.

Mrs. Crawford, who was with her husband, was uninjured.

Last year the history of these was studied.

This year the drama is to be studied to understand what they were thinking.

To understand a civilization one must get the thought of the people and this is depicted in their plays, and stories. The study of drama is taken up to give a better insight into human nature, to get a higher ideal of life and to understand better a good play.

The class is very enthusiastic and all enjoy the work. The next meeting will be Wednesday October 27, at the home of Mrs. D. A. Hoenshell.

The Lions club held their regular meeting Wednesday noon. Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, F. Gallienne; first vice president, H. A. Lake; second vice president, G. DRYAN TO OPEN CONVENTION IN ORANGE

ORANGE, Oct. 5.—William J. Bryan will open the annual convention of the Orange County Christian Endeavor union here this afternoon at 4 o'clock when he will speak at the auditorium of the Orange union high school on the subject, "The Bible and Science."

Mr. Bryan is expected to make an attack on the Darwinian theory of evolution and to attempt to prove that man did not ascend from the simian family.

Last Talk of Trip
It will be Bryan's last talk in California before he returns East.

While Bryan is appearing as the principal feature of the Endeavor convention which lasts until Sunday evening, the program is not restricted to convention members only, but the public generally is cordially invited to attend, according to C. E. Fuller, president of the Orange County Endeavor union, who is handling details of the convence.

"We want the public to attend these meetings," he said, "and desire to correct the impression that the convention, particularly Bryan's address, is for the benefit of convention members only."

The Commoner's address will be preceded by the Elite male quartet and a saxophone club, an organization accompanying Bryan.

Special reduced rates are being offered Orange county students for the address. The opening session will be the only one where an admission fee is to be charged. Tickets have been placed on sale at Weaver's book store and will be available at the auditorium.

Aside from the opening session, all convention meetings will be held at the Presbyterian church. The feature of the convence for this evening will be a pot-luck supper with an attractive musical program under the leadership of Harry Rimmer. Following the supper, a general mass meeting will be held in the church auditorium, starting at 7:30 o'clock. Byron Burdette is scheduled to deliver the principal address.

The sessions will open at 10:30 o'clock on Saturday morning when the general executive meeting will be held, featured by important business discussions. A series of conferences dealing with problems in junior intermediate and other branches of Endeavor work will follow the business sessions.

Hint Blackhand Back Of New L. A. Murder

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 4.—An inquest over the hatchet-headed body of Rosario Micicchi, Italian business man who was found slain near his deserted automobile here, was held today. Sheriff officials are working on clues that point to the belief that the man or woman who wielded the hatchet on Micicchi's skull was inspired by some blackhand plot.

REGISTERING OF PUPILS UNDERWAY

TUSTIN, Oct. 5.—Registration of minors in the Tustin district has been very light up to the present time, said Mr. C. A. Weise, principal of the grammar school, today, in comparing this year's registration with that of last year.

Minors over the county between the ages of three and eighteen are required to be registered at a school.

Because of the present light registration and for the convenience of farmers and ranchers outside of town the children may be registered tomorrow until 5 p. m. and the school will also be open for the parents to register tomorrow from 8 a. m. until 5 p. m., said Principal Weise.

A teachers' meeting was held at the school Tuesday afternoon, at which time several matters of importance were taken up. One of the subjects was the discussion of the teachers' institute to be held at Orange October 29 and 30. The local schools will be closed those dates.

There are now 475 students attending the Tustin grammar school of which number forty-four are in the kindergarten department. Three of the six new rooms added to the buildings during the summer are filled. Last year at this time the school recorded an attendance of 399 students.

A new school bus was added at the beginning of the year, making a total of two buses for the grammar school. Two of the high school buses also work in conjunction with the grammar school buses.

The cars carry nearly all 200 pupils from outside of the town. Picking up the students in the morning and returning them to their home as soon as school is out. The kindergarten, first and second grade children are taken home at 12:30 o'clock by the buses as their classes are out at that time.

With the addition of the ground purchased last year the children now have adequate playground room, and athletics, it is said, should take a large place in life of the school this season. It is understood that a good coach is among the faculty members.

TUSTIN GRADUATES TO HAVE RE-UNION

TUSTIN, Oct. 5.—The first graduating class of the Tustin union high school will hold its first reunion at the home of Clarence Bowman of this city this evening at 6 o'clock.

Plans have been maturing for some time to get the class together. All announcements have been made and word has been received from all of the last year first graduating class.

Miss Edna Phelps, class president, and one of the most popular girls of the school last year, will be the only one not able to attend the reunion, it was said here today.

Miss Phelps is attending college in the east. Miss Olive LaClair, class teacher, will hold the place of honor at the meeting. Several of the graduates are now attending college while some of them are working.

Californian Shatters Mountain Climb Mark

GLACIER PARK Mont., Oct. 5.—If you think you can do it—climb thirty-seven mountains to their peaks, in as many days—After which you will have broken the record just established by Norman Clyde, 38, schoolmaster of Weaverville, Calif.

That would be only one mountain more than Clyde climbed, one each consecutive day, during his recent camping hike through Glacier national park.

On the summits of eleven of the thirty-six mountains he traversed, Clyde failed to find evidence of anyone else having scaled them. That's another record, say professional mountain climbers here.

Clyde's highest climb was Mt. Wilbur, whose peak rises 9283 feet above the sea level. At its summit he left as his cairn, a monument to the late Dr. Wynn, mountain climber of national fame, who had made many unsuccessful attempts to scale this height. It took him three hours to build it, a pyramid of rocks which will withstand the fiercest elements, he says.

Tustin Students To Frolic Tonight

TUSTIN, Oct. 5.—The third annual bonfire and freshman-sophomore sack rush will be held on the athletic field of the local high school tonight.

Students and members of the faculty have been hard at work bringing timber and boxes for the big blaze, and building the various booths to be maintained by the different classes.

Last year as freshmen the present sophomore class won the event, and this year they declare they will repeat the feat. There is a large class of the freshmen, however, and some of them are "hussy."

The rush is an annual affair at the school and is looked upon as one of the biggest events of the year.

FAMOUS EDITOR OF ARGENTINE PASSES AWAY

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 4.—Dr. Estanislao Zeballos, former foreign minister of the Argentine republic and editor in chief of La Prensa of Buenos Aires, died here today. Dr. Zeballos had just arrived from the United States, where he had delivered a series of lectures on Latin-American conditions and Pan American relations.

News of the death was sent immediately to Don Enriquez Paz, owner of the La Prensa, who is in Paris.

Dr. Zeballos was one of the best known statesmen of South America and through his powerful editorial policy in La Prensa, probably did more than any other man toward shaping the international foreign policy of the continent. He was an ardent nationalist.

Last spring Zeballos took a leading part in the debate on a proposal for limitation of armaments between the South American republics, strongly opposing the contention of Brazil for a larger army and navy.

Zeballos was past seventy years old. The body will be sent to Buenos Aires for burial.

ESSAY CONTEST OF LEGION ENDS OCT. 12

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 5.—Observance of the American Legion essay contest by educational authorities in states representing 75,000,000 population, is forecast by Garland W. Powell, director of the Americanism commission of the Legion, in charge of the contest. Approximately 400,000 school children will submit essays in competition, the Legion leader believes.

In announcing final plans of the contest, which is to close at mid-night October 12, Powell named Raymond P. Crist, United States commissioner of naturalization; W. T. Bowden, assistant commissioner of education, and William Tyler Page, clerk of the house of representatives, as the committee of judges to pass on the compositions selected for final judgment. This committee will handle the winning essay from each Legion department, and the writer of the best will be awarded $750 cash for scholarship purposes at any school or university, $500 for second prize and $250 for third prize.

The subject is "Why America Should Prohibit All Immigration For Five Years," and is calculated by the Legion to create an interest in questions of national policy among school children of America.

HOW ABOUT YOUR GARDEN? READ THIS

Thirty or forty cents daily are easily spent by the average housewife for vegetables. That means over $100 a year. If you raise your own "garden truck" for ten years you will have saved enough money so that the income from it will keep you in vegetables the balance of your lifetime. Let's have more gardens so we may own our own homes.

EVENING SALUTATION

I see the rainbow in the sky,
The dew upon the grass;
I see them, and I ask not why
They glimmer or they pass.

With folded arms I linger not
To call them back; 'twere vain;
In this, or in some other spot,
I know they'll shine again.

GARDEN GROVE ROAD PROJECT

We find ourselves deeply interested in the proposal to complete the opening and paving of the Garden Grove road all the way from Long Beach to North Main street, Santa Ana. It is one of those projects which look rather formidable at first thought—this one being formidable largely for the reason that it calls for another bridge across the Santa Ana river—but which are founded on forceful reasoning relative to the future of the county.

Whenever one travels our main highways on Sunday afternoons and evenings or on holidays, his thoughts turn to the necessity of additional highways designed to divide the traffic, and we are inclined to welcome any reasonable plan that offers a division. From that point of view the Garden Grove road proposal is worthy of immediate consideration.

The Garden Grove road proposal can be divided into four distinct proposals. One calls for paving 4.7 miles of dirt road, all that remains unpaved between Garden Grove and Long Beach. The second calls for paving between Garden Grove and Flower street, Santa Ana. The eastern half of this road is little traveled now, for it crosses the Santa Ana river, which is impassable during a portion of every winter and which is hard traveling, because of sand, at all times. The third proposal calls for a bridge over the river. This proposal will be open to the objection—not an insurmountable objection, however—that there are already two bridges across the river, neither little more than a mile away. The fourth proposal seeks the opening and paving of a street between Flower and North Main streets along the north city limits line. As the Garden Grove committee suggests, this street is likely to be opened within a year or two as Santa Ana subdividing spreads to the north. Santa Ana has long felt the need of direct good roads connection with the section of the county between Garden Grove and the Santa Ana river. Hitherto, thought and effort looking toward securing a "northwest passage" have been directed almost entirely toward the paving of West Seventeenth street. The new project gives us another angle to think about.

Any highway paving project that seems to give opportunity for the division of traffic should be given close study by state and county authorities. Aside from other purposes that it will serve, the coast highway between Seal Beach and Serra, in this county, will prove highly serviceable in that it will bring a large measure of relief to the state highway inland through this county. Incidentally, we might say that there is another gap which in time will be paved, and which, when filled, will bring relief from state highway congestion mainly to residents of this county. This gap lies between the south end of South Main street and the Laguna Beach boulevard.

It is certain that traffic problems in Orange county will increase rapidly for many years to come, and whatever thought and time and money are put into solving not only traffic problems that exist today but traffic problems that are bound to be ours in the future will be thought and time and money well spent.

OKLAHOMA'S PLIGHT

Oklahoma has been making a national spectacle of her self.

It is impossible at this distance for one to reach an accurate conclusion as to who is to blame. We do know enough of it, however, to know that Oklahoma is suffering. The affliction began, of course, long before martial law was declared; it began with hooded lawlessness, and the governor was given opportunity, if not entire justification, for declaring martial rule.

If the governor in his actions was controlled solely by his desire to rid the state of Klanism, he is to be admired for his courage, if not commended for his discretion. But there is plenty of reason to believe that numerous other elements, mostly political, are involved. At least, Oklahomans who have come to Santa Ana recently tell us so, and they ought to know. Moreover, they assure us that there are many thousands of residents of the state who are disgusted with the whole affair.

The Redlands Facts aptly puts the situation like this:

Back and forth waggles the pendulum in Oklahoma, with two radical elements heading the two sides to the controversy, and the conservative people who want peace and harmony and quiet, who do not wear masks and who do not want to wear them, and who are equally disgusted with the parading of a shallow, spectacular governor, compelled to bear the brunt of the situation. Some day peace and good sense will return to Oklahoma, but the present situation is a distressing one.

The San Diego Union is perhaps no less certain in its opinion, but has a different way of putting it:

At this befogging distance—and probably the view would be no less muggy at the firing line—there seems to be two schools of thought regarding the respective merits of the case in the Battle of Oklahoma. One school would have us believe that the gubernatorial beligerents are quite right except where they aren't wrong, whereas on the other hand the other school as stoutly contends that the governor's adversaries are quite wrong except where they aren't right. By striking a fair and impartial average between these two extremes the neutral spectator will not, perhaps, go farther wrong than right, or in other words, vice versa. All in all, the foregoing is about as solemn and astute a comment on the absorbing mess as seems possible in this sanctum, but at the same time there is no disposition to be omniscient or superior, and one and all are welcome to come in and have a try at it themselves. In the matter of editorial opinion on the fracas in Oklahoma, you are cordially invited to unroll your own.

Of one thing we are sure, and that is that the situation in Oklahoma is swelling the tide of Oklahomans westward bound. It's our belief that more Oklahomans have settled in Santa Ana in the past year than in the decade before. True, many of them came without regard to floggings or martial law, the Klan or the governor, but since the situation has developed as it has they are just as well satisfied that they are in sunny California instead of in disrupted Oklahoma.

World's Cloud Lifting

San Francisco Chronicle
Premier Baldwin gave further evidence of possession of a sound fund of common sense in his speech Monday before the imperial conference in London. Debts of the great nations, he pointed out, must be recognized if the foundations of commercial progress are to stand. Reviewing the steps in the funding of the British debt to America, he said:

"The repayment of this debt is going to call for all our energy, but we considered this course an essential preliminary to restoration of the normal economic life of the world."

The British Premier likewise pointed out that honest divergence of opinion among nations is not incompatible with whole-hearted co-operation for world good. As evidence of this he referred to the results of the Washington conference which he characterized as of real benefit now and full of promise for the future.

There can be no question as to the fundamental soundness of these propositions. The canceling of national obligations is bad for the country which foregoes what is justly due and it is equally bad for the country and the people whose obligations are canceled. Such an unwise course inevitably would militate against the economic welfare of the future. No man can say what exigencies may arise in time to come or in what dire need of financial assistance any nation may sometime stand. It will be far better, when that time comes, if there are no bitter memories of canceled debts.

The troubles of the world can and will be solved just as soon as self-interest plays a less important part and right and justice are made the basis of negotiations. The woes of Europe will loom less largely upon the world horizon just as soon as Europe is really ready to disperse the clouds. Selfishness and greed and lack of consideration are not conducive to world peace or to world understanding. Neither nations nor individuals can be helped until they are ready to receive help.

Develop the Whole Child

San Francisco Journal.
Send the whole child to school. Develop his body and his soul as well as his mind. The kind of civilization we live in demands this three-fold education. Progress is estimated by the elimination of one-sided persons. Nothing permanently good is going to come from people who, as individuals or groups, are not well balanced.

A blending in equal proportions of body, mind and spirit is necessary to happiness. Let a man develop his body to the exclusion of his mind and personality and we have the beast and bruiser. Dempsey is a specialist in the over-developed body. He could not be a great fighting machine were he not exactly as he is. But men of this type are so little needed in the world today that when they do arrive they are regarded and compensated as curiosities. The agnostic, doubter, skeptic is the product of an over-developed mind. Such are drawbacks wherever found. They make silly mistakes because they are not human enough. Mental giants who are physical and spiritual pigmies have little to contribute to the world. They form the "intelligentsia." They contribute to the lunatic fringe.

Then there is the fanatic, the man who has developed what he thinks is his soul-life to the exclusion of other things. The man who rides a religious hobby to the limit may prove to be as disagreeable a neighbor as the bruiser or the scoffer. Happiness is a triangle composed of equal parts of body, mind and spirit. The happy community is that in which these three angles of life have equal attention and equal opportunity for development.

What We Expected

San Bernardino Sun.
Can it be true that the California journalists who thought the thousands of strenuous youths attending the university at Berkeley are cast in the mold of the mold? We are moved to the inquiry by the moralizing and sermonizing that we read in the State press with reference to the way the boys performed when the city of Berkeley was threatened with complete destruction 10 days ago. As for ourselves, we must confess they did just what we should have expected under similar circumstances—they dared everything to fight the flames, to rescue those whom danger threatened, to save such property as was possible, and in a thousand ways acquitted themselves as upstanding sons of California and the West.

Which was to have been expected, and when we read in the San Francisco Chronicle that "in particular we are uplifted by the work of the young men of the university," we can only wonder what the Chronicle folks thought would happen if the boys were ever put to the test. They are to be credited with making a mighty fine showing and giving a proper account of themselves, but why be surprised at it?

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.
DO PEOPLE REALLY RECOVER FROM CONSUMPTION?

In examining a man of fifty years of age some time ago. I was going over his chest in the usual way when I came across the evidence of a large cavity, I listened again and found I wasn't mistaken. The chap was laughing and asked me what was the matter. "Why," I said, "You have a big hole in your right lung."

"Oh, I know that," he said. "I had consumption some years ago, but I'm all right now."

And so he was. I advised light exercise at first, but found him able to take considerable work and within a year's time he was jogging a mile around the running track. Now why was he in such good condition after having been a victim of that terrible thing consumption?

Simply because he had done exactly as he was told when he learned the awful truth about himself. He had gone away to a sanitarium in the mountains and there had lived the only way to bring him back to health. That is, he rested all day until his temperature came down to normal, then he sat up for a few days in bed, then a few minutes on his feet daily, and finally out and around again, and then five hours light work or exercise every day until he left the institution.

And why had he no further trouble? Because the lessons he had learned there, he carried with him always. And what are they? No late hours. Outdoors as much as possible. Outdoor sleeping, or in a well aired room. Lots of rich food. Some daily exercise to keep up the appetite.

Thousands of people are cured every year. Most of those who have to return to the institution have not lived the life at their homes; they were taught to live whilst undergoing treatment.

The Bootlegger

Measures of Success

San Francisco Chronicle

President Coolidge, in setting forth his policies and aims, enunciated a worth-while truth when he said:

"If material rewards be the only measure of success there is no hope of a peaceful solution of our social questions, for they will never be large enough to satisfy. But such is not the case. Men struggle for material success because that is the path, the process, to development of character."

Again he says: "We must forever realize that material rewards are limited and, in a sense, they are only incidental, but the development of character is unlimited and is the only essential. The measure of success is not the quantity of merchandise, but the quality of manhood which is produced."

Cognizant of the fundamental truth that money will not purchase character or good government, the President at the same time recognizes the fallacy of the general and all too prevalent indictment against business enterprise. He continues to condemn selfishness and greed and all trafficking in the natural rights of man, but at the same time he advocates wholesome respect for thrift, industry and enterprise.

"Men," he points out, "must work for more than wages, factories must turn out more than merchandise, or there is naught but black despair ahead."

Characterizing the spirit of business as the most noteworthy spirit of modern times the President calls attention to what that spirit has done to advance the welfare of mankind. Where wealth has accumulated, he says, there the arts and sciences have flourished, education has been diffused and contemplation of liberty has been born. Commercial development, he holds, is necessary to all human progress. The Nation's chief executive calls attention to a thing we all know, namely, we live under the fairest government on earth, but it is incumbent upon each of us to do our part in sustaining it.

FAILURE

What is failure? It's only a spur
To a man who receives it right,
As it makes the spirit within him stir
To go in once more and fight.
If you never have failed, it's an even guess
You never have won a high success.

What is a miss? It's a practice shot
Which we often must make to enter
The list of those who can hit the spot
Of the bull's-eye in the center.
If you never have sent your bullet wide
You never have put a mark inside.

What is a knock-down? A count of 10
Which a man may take for a rest.
It will give him a chance to come up again
And do his particular best.
If you've never been bumped in a rattling go,
You never have come to the scratch I know.
—Edmund Vance Cooke.

Time to Smile

THAT WAS SOMETHING

An elderly woman who lives not as far as you might suppose from Springfield, had reached the age of 60 without ever having been to the nearby metropolis. It was her great ambition some day to see a train, which she had viewed only in pictures. So when a neighbor driving to town offered to take her, she consented with alacrity.

Upon her return her daughter's first question was: "Did you see the train?" "No," answered the old lady complacently. "I didn't see the cars, but I seen the skids they scoot on!"—Kansas City Star.

The Adventure of Re-Reading

Minneapolis Journal

Firm prejudices are sometimes overturned by the re-reading, after many years, of a masterpiece of literature that had defeated the reader in his less thoughtful and untripped days. For the fact that a book is generally acknowledged, that it is re-printed from time to time, makes reasonable the supposition that the lack has been in the reader and not in the book. The years do, or should, bring to an adventurer in books wider sympathies, improved tastes and sounder knowledge, and he may easily discover that his former judgment is overturned, and the banishing now takes its rightful place on the throne.

But, happily, the obverse of this statement may also be true. The book that one loved in childhood may, upon a re-reading, become as dust in the mouth, though in certain cases, even if not entirely worthy in itself, it may bring with it the old childish flavors and joys, and so retain certain values to the end.

Many sturdy readers have held from youthful days the belief that they "cannot read Thackeray," or Meredith, or even Scott. They had tried their milk teeth on these really great writers, had retired discomfited, and had given up what had proved to be a task instead of a pleasure. But during the years the new man has been in process of growing. Mind has broadened, and taste and appreciation improved, until it is practically another mind that takes down the doubtful volume, and finds it a joy forever.

The reader has grown up toward the master, and the two minds are now in touch. The book has not changed or improved: the leader has.

Certain writings must assuredly be "not for an age, but for all time." The Hebrew Scriptures, especially in the translation known as the King James Version, which have been spoiled for many readers in childhood by a too zealous inculcation of the texts for doctrinal or for moral purposes, will shine out like stars of the first magnitude for the judicious reader, who will, laying aside prejudices and every weight that doth so easily beset, come to them with an open mind and an anxiety to discover what they actually contain for intellectual pleasure and for vital food.

Books that have been prescribed to the pupil in school for tasks are often ruined for the real reader until, after many years, he returns to them to discover what they really contain and finds in them mines of pleasure and profit.

And there are certain books that no really astute reader should miss, such books as Boswell's Life of Johnson, Edward Fitzgerald's Letters and now, for which all America gives hearty praise, The Letters of William James, The Letters of Franklin K. Lane and Letters of Walter H. Page. If a man owned but these books he would have a library indeed, and one that would never fail him for interest, delight and profit.

Let us go back this winter and try a re-reading of a few of the old, possibly the scorned, masterpieces of the ages. They may come to us now in new faces, holding their generous old hearts in their hands, and, if we are equal to the test, they become new friends—and friends to the end of the chapter.

The Lesson

By Berton Brsley

He seemed to be a sissy-boy,
A prissy boy,
A silly boy;
His hands were white,
His figure slight,
His voice a trifle shrill;
He seemed a good example of,
A sample of
A "Willie-boy"

In every way
That one could say,
He seemed to fill the bill!

The boys began to joke with him,
They spoke with him
Quite airily;
He blushed bright pink
And seemed to shrink
Within his girlish skin;
Till some one used a blighting word.

A fighting word,
Then, verily,
All in a jiff
It seemed as if
A cyclone started in!

The gang that had been chiding him
And riding him
All day about;
And much amazed
Was in the gaze
Of every battered lamp:

"My words," the kid said, "prize or not—It's wiser not
To play about
With any gee

Who is, like me,
At present—lightweight champ!"

JOHNNIE of the CIRCUS and his CUFFY BEAR ~

~ By ARTHUR SCOTT BAILEY

Cuffy stared at the kangaroo's ill-matched legs.

THE CURIOUS KANGAROO
Cuffy Bear wanted to have a talk with that little person with the deerlike head and the short, slender fore legs. This stranger appeared to be mild and not unfriendly. As for that other stranger in the same cage, the one with the huge tail and powerful hind legs—Cuffy was not sure he would care to make his acquaintance. He wanted to see his face before he tried to make friends with him. If his face matched those wicked-looking claws on his hind feet, he must be, Cuffy thought, a fearful creature.

Cuffy Bear couldn't keep his eyes off that cage that housed the two strangers. He had seen only half of each of them. He wanted to see the front half of the big one, and the back half of the little one.

It wasn't until some circus men came along later in the morning and moved the cage that Cuffy had a good view of the inside of it. The men rolled the cage right past the spot where he stood.

He could hardly believe his own eyes. There was only one creature in that cage, where he had been sure there were two. And it was the most curious looking animal he had ever seen. It was sitting up, resting upon its huge hind legs and its green club-tail, which stretched out behind it upon the floor of the cage. As it passed Cuffy Bear it turned its little head towards him, while it held its fore legs exactly like a squirrel begging for a nut.

"Hasn't somebody made a mistake?" he asked.

In a few moments this strange sight had passed out of Cuffy's view. He looked up at Bramble the Bear.

"Wh—wh—what's that?" he stammered. "Is it real?" Bramble the Bear laughed in his face.

"That," he said, "is the Kangaroo. And you'd think he was real if he struck you with one of those hind feet."

"Hasn't somebody made a mistake?" Cuffy asked Bramble timidly. "Hasn't somebody mixed up two animals? Isn't there another creature in some other cage with big, strong fore legs and little, slender hind ones? I'm sure that the Kangaroo would thank anybody who gave him back his own legs."

"Which pair of legs," asked Bramble the Bear, "do you think ought to be changed?"

That was a poser for Cuffy. It was a puzzle that he couldn't answer. There seemed to be nothing to do except ask the Kangaroo himself.
